Halloween parades slated in three area communities

Time marches on. And, so do Halloween parades in the mid-Mon Valley.

Traditional parades are set for tonight in Charleroi and Monongahela, and a similar event will take place Thursday, Oct. 30, in Donora.

In Charleroi, where the volunteer fire department sponsors the annual event, the parade will begin at 7:30 p.m. from the entrance to Chamber Plaza. The lineup will be at the community Honor Roll near the Chamber Building, and the parade is expected to feature floats, musical and marching units, and traditional mummers.

A spokesman for the fire department reminded marchers that no political or business advertisements will be allowed in the parade. Prizes will be awarded after the parade.

In Monongahela, tonight's parade will start at 6:30 under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. Participants are requested to assemble at Chess Park by 6 p.m. to line up for the parade, which will move through the downtown business district before disbanding at the Aquatorium.

Numerous prizes also will be awarded in Monongahela.

Meanwhile, Donora Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual community Halloween parade Thursday at 7 p.m.

The line of march will form on Meldon Ave. between Second and Third streets, and all individuals, groups and floats are welcome to enter. Prizes will be awarded to first, second and third place, and the presentation of prizes will be made at Valley Skating Center after the parade.

All parade participants in the Donora event will be given a free skating pass to the Valley Skating Center for a special skate to be held from 8 to 10 p.m. Thursday.

Shooting victim's son sought

Probe extended in Donora

By KAREN PETERS

The son of the Donora police officer who was found slain in his home Monday evening is being sought by police for questioning.

An all-points bulletin for Brian Calzacorto, 23, of 236 Allen Ave., Donora, has been issued by state police, according to Trooper Edward Pauley, who is handling the investigation into the shooting death of Alfred Calzacorto on Monday.

"We are not seeking him (Brian) as a criminal homicide suspect," Pauley emphasized. "We are seeking him for questioning relating to his father's death."

The 32-year Donora police force veteran was found shot to death in the bedroom of his home on Monday. The younger Calzacorto, a 1982 graduate of Ringgold High School and a recent graduate of Robert Morris College, is unemployed and lives at home, Pauley said.

"We are interested, and the family is interested in knowing where he is," the state policeman said. "We are treating this as a suspicious death, but we don't know if it was homicide or suicide."

Asked about rumors that the younger Calzacorto had gone to Alabama to seek employment, and that he had called home Tuesday, Pauley said, "We have no idea where he is ... we have not heard from him, nor has his family to my knowledge."

Pauley said Brian Calzacorto was last seen at his home Monday morning. He is believed to be driving his father's rose-colored, 1984 Chevrolet, according to Pauley.

"We're not sure when Brian left Donora," the state police trooper ...

Calzacorto, 60, was pronounced dead at 9:35 p.m. Monday by Washington County Coroner Farrell Jackson.

His body was found in his bed by his wife, Mary Ann, when she returned home from church services Monday evening. He was last seen alive at about 8 a.m. when he returned home from work and went upstairs to lie down.

An autopsy performed Tuesday morning by Washington County Deputy Coroner and pathologist Dr. Ernest Abernathy determined the cause of death to be a massive laceration of the brain caused by a single gunshot wound to the head.

Jackson said it was thought at first that Calzacorto died from a massive brain hemorrhage, but then the ... 38-caliber slug entered the victim's right temple and lodged in the upper left portion of the brain, according to the coroner.

Jackson said the autopsy indicated the weapon was not in contact with the victim's skull when the fatal shot was fired, but that the gun was fired within an arm's length away from the head.

Police have not found the weapon used in the shooting, according to Pauley.

In addition to his wife and son Brian, Calzacorto is survived by another son, Brian's twin, Alfred Jr., and three daughters, Lorraine Fayish, Kathy Volpi and Janice Calzacorto.

Funeral services are set for Friday morning in Donora.

Monessen to remove canopies

By JEFF OLIVER

Monessen will soon lose one of its more controversial topics for discussion with the decision by City Council to advertise for bids for the demolition of the concrete canopy on Donner Ave.

At a special meeting last night, council unanimously approved to advertise for the bids, which City Administrator Howard Noll said he hopes to do by Monday.

The move for demolition was made happily by the members of council as the canopies have been viewed as somewhat of an eyesore in the downtown area of the city since their construction in 1974.

"I wouldn't say that I'm happy, but it's been a controversial issue ever since construction," said Mayor James Sepesky on the canopies, which run from Fourth to Sixth streets on both sides of Donner (with the exception of in front of Check's Furniture). "I don't think it enhanced the structural beauty (of the area) at all. It certainly didn't demonstrate itself.

"The only disturbing thing is that it will take public monies to remove a structure erected with public monies," the mayor added.

The money used to tear down the canopy will come from the city's Community Development Block Grants fund.

According to Noll, demolition has been tentatively slated to begin Nov. 21 and end by Dec. 31. The six-week period allows for bad weather days.

However, there are several options available for the city before demolition occurs. Since the work is slated to be done during the holiday shopping season, the engineers have asked if the city would prefer to have the work done from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. daily. Another option is to wait until after the holiday season for the demolition.

"I look for people to come

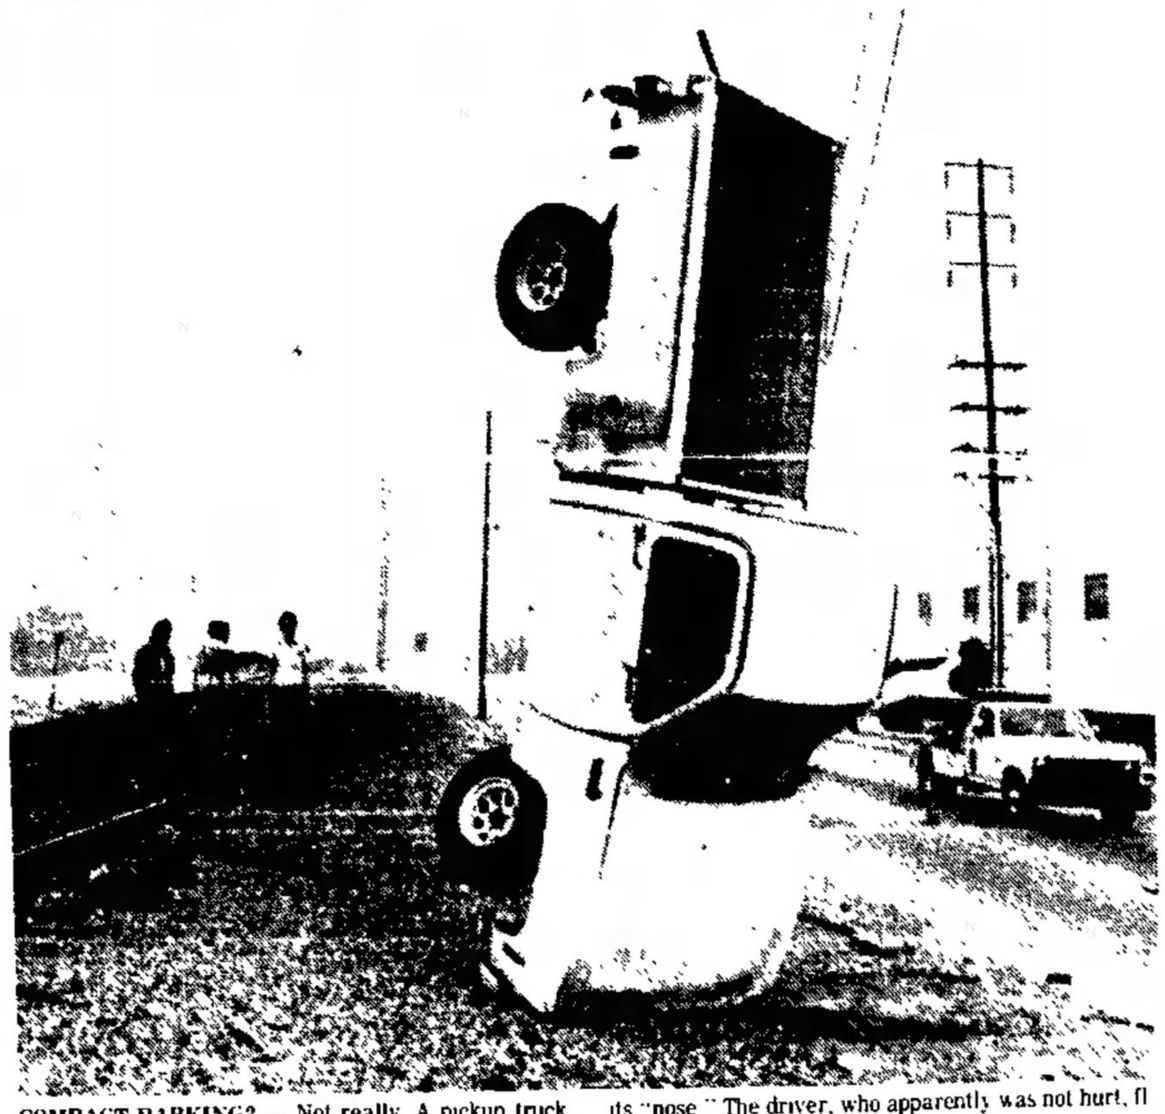
Monessen, unions in new pact talks

Contract negotiations with Monessen's three bargaining units are underway, but Mayor James Sepesky is not saying how the sessions are going or what has been put on the negotiating table.

The working contracts for the police, paid fire truck drivers/dispatchers and the non-uniformed employees expire on Dec. 31, according to the mayor. The police department is winding down on a one-year agreement while the other two contracts were three-year pacts as all three units have separate agreements.

"Both parties agreed that there be no public comment on negotiations until an agreement is reached," said Sepesky.



COMPACT PARKING? — Not really. A pickup truck that veered off a street in Commerce, Calif., yesterday, climbed the guy wires of a power pole and wound up on its "nose." The driver, who apparently was not hurt, fled the scene, police said.

Labor in big push for voter turnout

By THOMAS GROSE
The Valley Independent
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Get-out-the-vote efforts of organized labor will help Democrats "balance" GOP money in U.S. Senate races next week, but labor's influence will be minimal in most key states where control of the Senate will be decided, according to a major public workers union.

"The most vulnerable Republican seats are in states where the labor movement is minuscule," said Jerry Clark, political action director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Clark, along with AFSCME President Gerald McEntee, told reporters at a briefing that only three states with sizable labor movements — Wisconsin, Washington and Pennsylvania — have Republican incumbents facing serious Democratic challenges. The Republicans are leading in Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, while the Washington race is considered a toss up.

"If someone like (Democratic challenger Ed) Garvey can win in Wisconsin, we think that much of that will have flowed from labor," McEntee said.

Nonetheless, McEntee added, labor's efforts in manning phone banks, leafletling and other get-out-the-vote operations will go a long way toward blunting the GOP's financial superiority.

"The Republicans always had more money, and they're starting to use it in a much more sophisticated manner," McEntee said. "But unions like us, with our get-out-the-vote efforts, can balance that somewhat."

And that is particularly true in a year like 1986, when there are forecasts of record low turnouts, Clark added.

AFSCME, a growing union of 1.1 million members, is one of the most politically active. It plans to spend $2 million this years on election operations, and another $1 million to $1.5 million on direct contributions to candidates.

AFSCME, McEntee said, has 950 people working 55 banks across the country. As of mid-October, AFSCME volunteers were making 1 million calls a week.

McEntee and Clark's overall prediction: Democrats will win control of the Senate by a 52-48 or 53-47 margin. The GOP currently holds a 53-47 seat margin, but it must defend 22 of 34 seats up for grabs this year.

The Democrats will capture six seats now held by Republicans, they said: Maryland, Florida, the Dakotas, Idaho and Nevada.

The Democrats' best longshots are Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Georgia. The Republican's best longshots are California and Vermont, they said.

The labor executives conceded President Reagan's enormous popularity among the electorate, but doubted his near full-time campaigning on behalf of Republican Senate candidates would be of much help to the GOP.

W-P gets opposition on bid to reduce taxes at Allenport

By CHRISTOPHER BUCKLEY

Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. is seeking a major reduction on the property taxes it pays at its Allenport facilities, but Washington County and local taxing bodies have requested a slight increase instead.

A public hearing was held Tuesday in the Washington County tax offices to hear Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel's request.

Now assessed at $8 per square foot for the 1,569,000 square foot facility, Wheeling-Pittsburgh is seeking a new levy of the property to $1.31 per square foot.

Leonard Mendelson, attorney for the company asked the tax assessment board to take into consideration the declining steel market when making its decision on the appeal.

"There is a surplus of steel plants and other industrial facilities on the market," said Mendelson. "The adverse economic situation with Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel has an impact on the value of the property. A major portion of the plant is not in use and it is doubtful that it will be in the future."

Daniel Brown, manager of taxes for Wheeling-Pittsburgh, gave an account of the present work status within the plant. According to Brown, the tube mill has been closed since 1982 — with the exception of 1984 when it was reopened for the sole purpose of filling one special order. It has been permanenently closed since August 1984. The 66-inch hot strip has been shut down since late 1979, he added.

"When you take into account that the tube mill has not been working since it was closed and the sheet mill has not been operated since 1979, approximatley 58 percent of the plant is idle," said Brown, noting that the cold roll mill is the main operation presently being performed in the plant.

Mendelson read a list of approximately two dozen "comparable sales" of industrially-based plants in Southwestern Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, the bulk of which were sold between 1979 and 1981. The lowest sale price was $2.12 per square foot with the average sale at approxiamtely $4 to $4.50 per square foot.

Wayne Fleming, director of revenue for Washington County, presented the case for the taxing bodies of Allenport Borough, the California Area School District and Washington County, presenting a different set of comparable sales. Fleming said Mendelson's presentation "gave an indication that there's a glut of major industrial properties on the market."

"That's not a fact as my recent sales indicate," said Fleming. "A glut did exist in 1979, but since that time federal, state and local governments have bought up some of the "eyesore" large industrial facilities."

Fleming listed several deals he considered to be comparable sales to the Allenport Plant, including:

- A&P Parts, Toledo, Ohio, a one million square foot facility, at a price of $10.5 million or $9.27 per square foot. Repairs made to the facility shortly after its purchase would increase the selling price to $10.75 per square foot.
- Kelsey-Hayes Corp., Philadelphia, 770,000 square foot plant, at a price of $8.44 per square foot.
- General Motors in Union County, N.J., one million square foot facility,

USX settlement target date disputed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — USX Corp. and the United Steelworkers challenged a report saying negotiators were making progress under a company-imposed weekend deadline for settling the largest work stoppage in steel since 1959.

The Wall Street Journal on Tuesday quoted unidentified sources with the steelmaker's largest customers as saying USX officials reported progress while saying they hoped to reach a tentative settlement by the weekend to resume shipping steel after the first of the year.

USX asked steel customers to hold off placing their 1987 first-quarter orders as long as possible in case the company reaches a contract agreement, but steel salesmen were not authorized to project this weekend as a target for settling, said company spokesman William Hoffman.

"I think they went a little overboard in reporting progress at the table," said USW spokesman Gary Hubbard. "There were a lot of ups and downs in the pre-lockout negotiating period that were interpreted as progress at the table."

Most orders for first-quarter steel shipments are placed by Nov. 10 to allow time for production and delivery.

Reuben Perin Jr. and Thomas Usher, senior vice presidents, recently told salesmen to "get out to the customers and say talks indeed had resumed and hold off as long as they could placing November orders," Hoffman said. But they gave no orders that salesmen specify a target date for settling a new contract.

About 99,000 union members stopped work Aug. 1 when their three-year contract expired amid a deadlock over the company's demands for financial concessions.

The union, which offered to continue working under the old agreement, considers the dispute a lockout, while the company calls it a strike.

The dispute is the largest in the industry since 500,000 USW members shut down U.S. steel production in 1959.

As they have since bargaining resumed Oct. 21 after 11 weeks of silence, spokesmen for the union and the nation's largest steelmaker have declined to comment on the issues. The talks are continuing this week at an undisclosed location under a news blackout.

In New York, the board of directors of USX held a regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday but did not receive a corporate restructuring study management has commissioned from Wall Street advisers, Hoffman said.

The study has not yet been presented to management, which plans to study it before making any restructuring recommendations to the board, he said.

The company has been under pressure from investor Carl Icahn to reorganize its oil and steel businesses to boost stock prices. Otherwise, he has asked that management accept his proposal to buy the company's stock for $31 per share, or more than $7 billion.

The study originally was expected Oct. 22, the day Icahn said his friendly merger proposal would expire. He said he might launch an unsolicited tender offer for the stock, but has held off while he discusses USX operations with management representatives.

tivities helped bring USX back to the bargaining table.

Ceremonies at BVA game an emotional experience

Valley Doings

By ISABELLE HURLEY

By ISABELLE HURLEY

Call me "kooky" — I should have stayed at home — but I'm glad I didn't.

I had no idea when daughter Jean and I made our way to the James Weir Stadium for the Belle Vernon Area High School-West Mifflin football game that it would be so emotional, but, it was!

Not the game itself — it was great we won handily and we saw some good playing — but even before the game it started BVA's band was on the field when we got there and they lined up with some football players, cheerleaders, etc and there was a wide path right down the middle I

On the other side of the field was a line of students and a line of parents. Each student met his parents and the three walked proudly wearing a flower and the girls almost all had gift bouquets As they took part in the processions their accomplishments, activities and in some cases their future plans were read over the loud speaker Some of looked like they had lost their last ud When the band played the BVA Alma Mater and The National Anthem I had almost had it — I'm not real brave at these ceremonies

It was over and I really enjoyed the first half of the game little knowing the "best" was yet to be

At half time Mifflin's very large band took the field and it was great especially when they played "New York, New York" and a line of dancers stretching from one end of the field to the other did the American version of the Can Can just like in "The Chorus Line."

But since they were paying special tribute to "Miss Liberty" the musicians played "The Battle Hymn of the Rebpublic." They pulled out all stops. I have never heard it played better — but that's not all — a huge American Flag suddenly appeared

— then came a poster or painting of the Statue of Liberty and in the distance standing on the last seat on the students' side of the stadium was a single person waving about a six-foot American Flag to and fro in the dim light. The line "Our flag was still there" raced through my head

For the second time this year I

in a standing ovation for a visiting

ing

It was emotional — but do you think it was over — not on your life The BVA band, majorettes, color guards, etc who will graduate were also honored There surely were lots of them and they stood in front of the band As the accomplishments of each senior were read they were joined on the field by their parents — moms wearing mums — and again the pride just oozed not only on the field but in the stands The band broke into the familiar and loved "I Believe in Music" and it was over

What a happy night — yet nostalgic. I remembered when my kids graduated there really wasn't much hoopla, but, since that time I have no idea how many "seniors" I have honored and the result is always the same — lump in the throat-tears in the eyes, but, pride and love in my heart for both parents and kids.

I always thought I was a panty-waist about things like that, but, after reading Phil Musick write about his two daughters and his five Korean adopted kids and even Erma Bombeck's feelings about family and friends, I realize nothing in the world is more important than those you love.

IS IT MY IMAGINATION OR IS

DRASTICALLY — when I see a headline about a Valley school I hurry to read about what I think is football Then I notice the score and realize I'm reading about soccer

Not too long ago soccer was just something we talked about, but, I have never seen a game. I plan to remedy that even if I have to catch a game on TV this late in the season

Monessen's Michael Moorer, who played football, but, the picture did not look like he was on the gridiron for the Greyhounds He wasn't, he had just won an important boxing match and there were two 12-year-olds pictured too and were they every going at it

It seems as though we really are diversifying with volleyball, wrestling, track swimming, etc and that's great A good example for other fields of endeavor

THE DIVERSIFICATION HAS ALSO HIT the Mon Valley Chapter of Golden Panthers Last week when we met at the West Newton Moose our guest speaker was Randy Stottlemyer, wrestling coach at Pitt and husband of a Belle Vernon gymnist, Regina Carson He brought with him two of his team members, Eric Wertz and Gary Bolin, and, the three told us a lot about that sport and how it is progressing at Pitt Randy was coach of the year in the EWL and he has high hopes for the upcoming season and the two young men as well as some others who have high tions and answers and interest shown The week previously we heard about baseball and Thursday of this week we will be back at Pleasant Village and the new Pitt basketball coach is expected to attend

Valley tourism talk in W. Newton

Roy Sarver, executive director of Monongahela Valley Tourism Organized to Utilize Our Resources (TOUR) spoke recently at a meeting of West Newton Area Business Association.

His topic was tourism as a means to aid the local West Newton economy.

Sarver said each community draws upon a certain regular market that surrounds a community's commercial district.

"A tourist," he explained, "is any person traveling outside his community or residence and its immediate surroundings to engage in activities of pleasure, business, educational, or personal reasons, which are not that person's regular activity."

Within this definition in the case of West Newton, he stated, a person from Belle Vernon is "as much a tourist as one from New Jersey."

"Tourism expands the market from which a community normally can draw customers," Sarver said.

He explained the first steps a community needs to accomplish to attract the tourist market. Additionally, he showed examples of what other local communities are doing.

Also speaking at the Business Association session was Terry Necciai, who has just returned to the Mon Valley from Mreidian, Miss. Necciai was involved in Meridian's Main Street Program, a national project to revitalize small downtowns.

Necciai focused on what can be accomplished to stimulate the existing West Newton market. He related his experiences in Meridian, comparing it to what needs to be done in West Newton.

Necciai also pointed out that the Main Street Program consists of four elements — organization, economic restructuring, design, promotion.

Both speakers told the Business Association that they believe the West Newton business community has a promising future.

GENE NEMES

Gospel concert in Monongahela

A varied program featuring traditional and contemporary gospel music will be presented by vocalist Gene Nemes at the First Presbyterian Church of Monongahela on Sunday, Nov. 2, at 7 p.m.

Nemes' ministry in gospel music spans a period of more than 20 years. For many of those years he traveled with various gospel singing groups.

In 1983 Nemes committed himself to a full-time singing ministry as a soloist. His ministry has taken him throughout the Eastern United States to Tennessee, Canada and the Caribbean Islands.

Persons attending his concerts have compared his style of singing to that of Rusty Goodman, Dave Boyer and Gary McSpadden. The concert is free and the public is invited. The church is located on Sixth Street.

Evangelist set for Belle Vernon

The People's Bible Church, 1101 Henry St., Belle Vernon, will hold evangelistic services Oct. 30 through Nov. 2 at 7 p.m. nightly.

Featured speaker will be Dr. David Spurlin, the 29-year-old president of Freedom Bible College in Lakemont, N.Y. Dr. Spurlin and his wife Connie, proclaim the word of God through music and a puppet ministry.

Charleroi Kiwanis sponsor scholarship

The Charleroi Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a new scholarship program for students in the Charleroi Area School District.

The scholarship, as explained by Scott Spadafore, immediate past president of the Charleroi Kiwanis Club, is available to any Charleroi Area High School senior with the exception of the sons or daughters of Kiwanis members.

Spadafore said the one year scholarship, which will be awarded annually, will have a minimum value of $500. The scholarship is not only for students who are college bound, but is also for students who plan to further their education after high school by attending nursing school or some form of career school such as a beauty academy.

Scholarship award will be based upon an essay written by each applicant detailing why they would like to receive it and will also take into account the applicant's academic grades, the extent of his or her ac-

All information will be kept confidential and each applicant will be assigned a number which will replace the name when the applicant is considered for the scholarship by a panel.

That panel, according to Spadafore, will be made up of himself, David Watkins and Vito Dentino, all of the Charleroi Kiwanis Club, and two other members taken from either members of the district's administration, faculty or school board.

Spadafore said that, in all probability, the value of the scholarship will increase in each ensuing year.

Students interested in applying for this year's scholarship or in obtaining more information about it are invited to contact any member of the school district's administration or Kiwanis Club member.

This year's scholarship will be awarded during the school's student awards day assembly at the end of the current school year.

JAMES J. MANDERINO
REPRESENTATIVE, 58th DISTRICT

DEAR VOTER:

Although I have no opposition this fall I want to take this opportunity to ask you for your vote and speak to you about the basic difference between the two parties and their candidates.

"RAINY DAY"

The Thornburg/Scranton Administration, like the Reagan Administration, maintains it is a sunny day, things have never been better. You and I may disagree. A few years ago our state developed a 50 million dollar surplus. The Thornburg/Scranton Administration proposed to put this money in a "rainy day' fund to be used if the economy went bad.

"SUNNY DAY"

The Democratic members of the General Assembly looked at this surplus differently. We thought then, and still do, that it is raining and this fund should be used to create new jobs and stimulate economic growth. The Thornburg/Scranton Administration was brought kicking and screaming to the bargaining table; twenty-five million dollars was put in a "sunny day" fund to promote industrial development.

THE SUNNY DAY FUND WORKS

Although Pennsylvania did not get the Saturn plant that General Motors finally located down south, the sunny day fund kept us in the running for a while. More recently the fund provided a 4 million dollar loan which was the key to locating the Genesis plant in the Mon-Valley which will create at least 200 jobs and establish a new industry there. There will be more success stories involving this program.

PENNSYLVANIA NEEDS LEADERSHIP

We can't solve problems if we refuse to acknowledge they exist. We need leadership that won't paper-over problems with press releases. We need leadership that is committed to providing economic development tools, educational opportunities, transportation and other infra-structure necessary for our economic recovery. I believe that Bob Casey as Governor and Mark Singel as Lt. Governor will provide that kind of leadership in Harrisburg and Bob Edgar will do the same in Washington. I highly recommend them to you. Pennsylvania is coming back, they can help. Thank you for your consideration.

SINCERELY,

Some thoughts on Halloween

By Raymond E. Linders

One of these years there will come a magnificent meeting of all the great minds, and we will see the abolishment not only of tricking or treating, but of Halloween as well.

After all, what purpose does it really serve anyway?

It's an excuse for little kids to hold up their neighbors and for bigger kids to contemplate and, in some instances, engage in devilry of a sort the world could do nicely without, thank you.

But that's somewhere down the road, and meanwhile, the argument goes on:

Should we have trick-or-treating?

Should we outlaw it and get everybody to kick in a few bucks for a community party instead of buying all those mini-bars of chocolate which always seem to outnumber the kids who come to the door?

Or should we...?

Having been blessed with a never-ending supply of opinions, I'll be happy to tell you what I think.

I think that while we're trying to decide what to do with Halloween, we should stop messing around with it.

I think, despite the weirdos in the world, it can be a fun time for kids, especially the little ones, and I think they need fun times to look forward to while they prepare for survival in a world that sorely needs some uplift.

After all, if tricking and treating does nothing else constructive, it gets kids away from the television set for a few hours.

And the other thing I think, now that we have salvaged Halloween, is that we should have Halloween on Halloween.

Saturday afternoon, while busily working on the second floor of the house, the doorbell rang.

Six little kids in costume were standing there, at 4 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 25, six days early.

For the next couple of hours, other kids arrived in this preliminary skirmish with ghosts and goblins.

If there was any spirit of Halloween for the kids, there sure was none for me.

Halloween needs All Hallow's Eve to have its fullest possible impact.

It needs the descending darkness to add just the right touch of mystery to this annual confrontation between tricksters and treaters.

And it needs some consistency between the contradictions in a given area, so that Halloween comes at the same time for Rostraver Township as it does for Charleroi, for Monessen as for California, and for Monongahela as for Belle Vernon.

The way it is now, we're legislating all the fun out of it, for the benefit of the old fogies who would take from the kids a joy they themselves once knew.

Halloween will outlive me, I'm sure.

Tricking or treating may not, but while it's around, why not let it just be what it is, with the necessary supervision to promote safety, but not the adult manipulation that will squeeze the last drop of fun from it.

Oh yes, and why not try having it on Halloween again?

Hobgoblin Hike earns thanks

To the Editor:

Warmest congratulations and a [illegible] planning and execution of Hobgoblin Hike, held in Cedar Creek Park on Friday, Oct. 24.

The whole affair was well organized from parking to family safety and crowd control. There was no admission charged.

The people "scaring" were realistic and gave the older kids something to scream about but were sympathetic and less agressive with the younger kids.

This entertaining program was enjoyed by all who we encountered, young and old alike.

We encourage the return of this affair next year, and hope to see other family oriented functions of its kind.

Thank you again!

Some timely tips for Halloween

THE NIGHT CHILDREN have been waiting for all year is almost here in the Mid-Mon Valley. Halloween means costumes, trick 'n treating and bags of goodies to youngsters.

The Western Pennsylvania Safety Council has a few tips for parents that we feel ought to be followed. After all, a few extra safety precautions can help insure that children have a fun-filled and safe outing.

When disigning costumes for children parents should follow these safety guidelines:

- Only fire-resistant material should be used.
- Costumes should be large enough so warm clothes can be worn underneath and to allow freedom of movement. They should not be so long as to cause a tripping hazard.
- Outfits should be made of light colors, and reflective tape can make children even more visible.
- Consider using makeup rather than a mask so children's vision will not be obstructed.
- For youngsters under the age of 12, attach their name, address and telephone number to their clothes, but not in an easily visible place.

Before children start out for the evening, parents should make sure that:

★An adult will be supervising the trick 'n treating.

★Children travel only in familiar areas and along an established route.

★Pedestrian safety rules have been reviewed, such as crossing only at corners and obeying traffic signs and signals.

★Children know to stop only at houses or apartment buildings that are well lit and never to enter a stranger's home.

★Each child has change for a phone call in case they have a problem while away from home.

★A return time has been set.

★Youngsters understand that they may not eat any treat until you have inspected it.

Wrong guy said blamed

By JACK ANDERSON
and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — French officials are deliberately misleading their own people and the international press about the true source of the terrorist bombings that have rocked Paris in recent months. The purpose of the deception may be to cover up a secret deal that the French hope will put an end to the carnage.

Responsibility for the indiscriminate bombings, which have killed 10 people and wounded 162, was claimed by a mysterious group that calls itself the Committee for Solidarity with Arab and Middle Eastern Political Prisoners. The conjunction "with" may be the key word in the title.

The demand that followed each bombing has been consistent: release of three terrorists held in French prisons. Two, Georges Abdallah and Anis Naccache, are Maronite Christian Lebanese; the third, Varadjian Garbidjian, is an Armenian Christian, born in Syria.

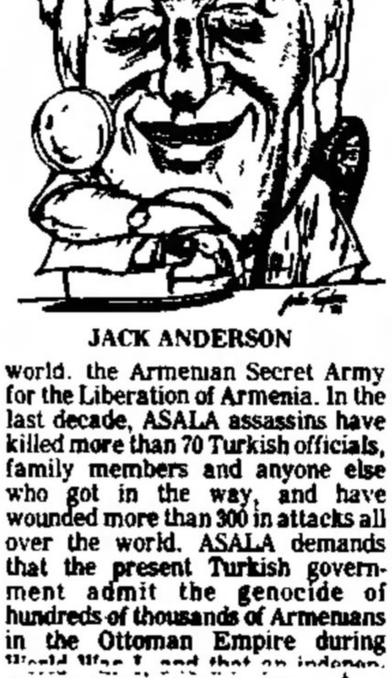
French officials from Prime Minister Jacques Chirac down have convinced the press that Abdallah is the key individual. He heads a small terrorist group, the Lebanese Armed Revolutionary Factions, but is charged with only minor crimes in France. The Carlos-style plot used in the 1982 murders of an Israeli diplomat and an American military attache was found in Abdallah's apartment.

But there's no other evidence on which to hold Abdallah for very long. With or without blackmail bombings, the French would have to set him free in a few years at most.

As for Naccache, who bungled an attempt to assassinate an Iranian exile leader, he is small potatoes. He doesn't even belong to a terrorist organization capable of a series of bombings.

That leaves Garbidjian. He is serving a life sentence, with no possibility of parole, for the 1983 bombing at Orly Airport outside Paris that killed seven people, including an American. Garbidjian acknowledged responsibility for the bombing.

Who is Garbidjian? He is a top leader — if not No. 1 — of one of the deadliest terrorist groups in the world, the Armenian Secret Army for the Liberation of Armenia. In the last decade, ASALA assassins have killed more than 70 Turkish officials, family members and anyone else who got in the way, and have wounded more than 300 in attacks all over the world. ASALA demands that the present Turkish government admit the genocide of hundreds of thousands of Armenians in the Ottoman Empire during World War I, and that an independent Armenian homeland be carved out of eastern Turkey.



JACK ANDERSON

Our sources, who are terrorist experts in various Western intelligence agencies, believe Garbidjian is the French prisoner whose release is the crucial demand of the Paris bombers. They point out that ASALA has the organization, discipline and agents in France to carry out the series of bombings that began last February.

In this scenario, Abdallah, the Lebanese terrorist, is just a red herring to divert the press from a deal over Garbidjian. In fact, a similar situation developed exactly five years ago.

On Oct. 25, 1981, ASALA launched a series of 15 bombings in Paris to win the release of an Armenian-American ASALA leader, Monte Melkonian, and better treatment for four other members charged with the takeover of the Turkish consulate in Paris, in which a security guard was killed.

Our sources confirm that the French cut a deal with ASALA in January 1982. The bombings stopped, Melkonian was set free and the four other ASALA prisoners were given light sentences. One subsequently committed suicide in prison; the three remaining were released last spring.

The truce blew up — literally — with the Orly Airport bombing. But Garbidjian told French investigators it was an accident: The suitcase bomb was supposed to detonate on board a Turkish airliner, not on French soil. The French were furious anyway, and sentenced Garbidjian to life.

Our inquiries into the Garbidjian connection have made French sources nervous. Meanwhile, though, Chirac has succeeded in selling the story that Abdallah is the reason for the bombings. (A lengthy article in the New York Times Magazine last week focused on Abdallah and didn't even mention Garbidjian.)

BIDDING BUDDIES

Government inspectors have uncovered suspiciously incestuous "competitive" bids and astronomical markups in emergency contracts for waste removal awarded by the Environmental Protection Agency.

One contractor jacked up the price of an item 15,300 percent above cost, according to an EPA inspector general's report reviewed by our reporter Robert Young. Fortunately, it was cheap to begin with: the use of a trash pump, which the inspector general figured at 10 cents per unit of time. The contractor charged $16.

The inspector general was particularly critical of EPA's relaxed attitude toward supposedly competitive bidding. Bid proposals were requested from 235 firms; six responded. What bothered the inspector general was that five of the six firms bid not only for the prime contract, but also as subcontractors with their competitors — which obviously entailed sharing of information among the bidders. One firm entered one bid as contractor and three as a subcontractor to firms it had shared information with.

The report stops short of charging collusion among the bidders, but EPA officials have promised to pay more attention to encouragement of competition in the future.

MINI-EDITORIAL

We're bemused by the way political candidates of both extremes — right and left — accuse their opponents of trying to pose as "moderates." It seems to be the conventional wisdom that blandness, not honestly expressed conviction, is the only way to win an election. But if that's true, how did Ronald Reagan make it to the White House?

Top secret cables

It isn't too much fun for an American diplomat to be stationed in the U.S. embassy in Moscow these days. When the U.S. kicked out 55 Russians the Soviets withdrew all their housekeeping personnel from the American embassy in Moscow, leaving over 400 American employees to scrub the floor.

To show you what pain this caused, here are reprints of some of the top secret cables exchanged between the State Department and our brave people in Moscow.

U.S. EMBASSY, MOSCOW

President wants to know what was Politburo's reaction when Gorbachev returned from Iceland summit. Also, is hanging tough on Star Wars playing in Smolensk? Finally, how much grain will Soviets buy this year? Need information for G.O.P. fund-raising speech tonight. — Harlequin

Sending this in code so someone in Washington will read it. Lower oven in the kitchen has funny smell. Experiencing severe frying pan shortage. We are not, repeat not, interested in your problems. We just received word here that Marshal Blini, commander of all Soviet Air Forces, wants to defect and live in U.S. Make immediate contact and give him asylum in embassy so we can wring him dry. — Harlequin

STATE DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, D.C.

All hands Moscow agree this not a good time to give Marshal Blini asylum as we are short on sheets and pillowcases. Staff resistance to doubling up with a defector is growing. UAW protests aid for Mexico plants

DETROIT (AP) — A Commerce Department-sponsored conference to help U.S. companies set up plants in Mexico is pushing "more workers onto unemployment lines," United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber says.

About 38,000 U.S. businesses have been invited to the December conference in Acapulco on "maquiladoras," Mexican manufacturing plants that assemble products from primarily American-made parts, the Commerce Department says.

"In the midst of a record trade deficit that is continuing to wipe out U.S. jobs by the hundreds of thousands, it is truly shocking to discover the Reagan administration sponsoring a meeting to help U.S. firms push still more workers onto Tuesday.

The UAW took out a full-page ad Tuesday in The Evansville (Ind.) Courier, a day before President Reagan's planned stop there to stump for Republican Richard D. McIntyre's congressional election bid.

The ad was headlined: "A question for Ronald Reagan: Why are and said U.S.-owned factories in Mexico employ 250,000 workers while 58,700 Indiana workers have lost manufacturing jobs since 1980.

The Commerce Department says that by using U.S. parts, the maquiladoras save American jobs. Without them, the department argues, U.S. companies looking to lower labor costs would move assembly to Southeast Asia, where they would likely use few American-made parts.

The UAW disagrees with that reasoning, said spokesman Peter Laarman.

"We think the economists and the corporate people who come up with these alternatives come up with rotten alternatives," Laarman said.

"We think decisions about where investments are going to be made should consider how to maximize employment and income in the United States.

"The choice becomes the Pacific Rim or Mexico when you've abandoned the United States. A world labor auction is not a good way to develop the (U.S.) economy."

Under a program begun by the Mexican government in 1966, foreign companies are allowed to import components duty-free, assemble them in Mexico and export the finished products back to the United States or other countries.

Most of the nearly 800 maquiladoras along the U.S.-Mexico border are owned by U.S. companies, said Melissa Coyle, director of the Commerce Department's Washington.

Last week, Congress banned use of taxpayer money for the conference, but Commerce Department spokesman Don Creed said it still could be held because fees charged to participants and exhibitors would cover costs doesn't come until this week, but an early celebrant appeared in the press box at the Charleroi Area-Waynesburg football game. The masked man, who drew a lot of attention, is actually Scott Oliver of Monessen.

USX reports third quarter loss

PITTSBURGH (AP) — USX Corp., an oil and steel giant, says it lost $183 million, or 80 cents per share, on sales of $3.3 billion in the third quarter.

The results were a sharp decline from the net profit of $144 million, or 46 cents per share, reported on sales of $5.3 billion in the same three months of 1985, the Pittsburgh-based company said Tuesday.

New York investor Carl Icahn, who purchased 29 million shares, or 11.4 percent of USX stock, is pressuring the company to increase stock values by restructuring its businesses.

"We are evaluating a wide variety of restructuring alternatives," USX Chairman David Roderick said

The troubles in the third quarter "reflect lower selling prices and volumes for oil and gas as well as curtailed steel operations resulting from the strike which began on Aug. 1," Roderick said in a printed state-

About 22,000 members of the United Steelworkers union have been off the job for 90 days as of today in a dispute over demands for wage, benefit and work rule concessions at the steelmaking unit, USS Corp.

The parent's oil and gas subsidiaries, Marathon Oil Co. and Texas Oil and Gas Corp., reported operating losses, before foreign taxes, totaling $16 million, compared to operating profits of $423 million a year earlier.

Marathon made $2 million on sales of $1.8 billion for the quarter, while TXO lost $18 million on sales of $212 million.

USX, formerly United States Steel Corp., cited depressed prices and production in oil and gas operations and a $31 million pretax charge for resolving contractural disputes.

The oil and gas unit expects a $4 million foreign tax credit for the quarter, compared to taxes of $133 million a year earlier

"During the third quarter of 1986, prices, both in the field and at the pump, reached their lowest levels in more than seven years," Roderick said "We are optimistic that both crude oil and refined product prices those realized in the third quarter."

Steel and related operations operated at a loss of $127 million on sales of $930 million for the quarter, compared to a $4 million operating loss on sales of $1.7 billion a year earlier.

The effects of the work stoppage were aggravated by a 6 percent decline in transaction prices, Roderick said.

UMW wraps up; strike fund vote

ATLANTA (AP) — United Mine Workers delegates cleaned up the last convention details during district-by-district sessions then packed up and headed home a day early.

"It was pretty well oiled," observed Frank Thurman, a delegate from southern West Virginia involved in one of the few factions to dissent from tactics of the Richard Trumka administration.

In addition to the delegate meetings, the union's governing body met Tuesday afternoon to vote on reimposing a 2.5 percent strike fund assessment after the convention voted to lift all ceilings on the fund.

In a news conference Monday, Vice President Cecil Roberts said he expected the assessment to be deducted from working miners' pay checks starting about Nov. 1

"It was a big gamble, but I guess we had to take it," said one delegate who asked not to be named. "If that's what it takes to survive, because that's what it's all about — survival. My boys won't like it much, but they know that we didn't have no choice."

LTV, county near tax pact

ALIQUIPPA, Pa. (AP) — This economically depressed community and six other tax collecting bodies stand to lose under a tentative agreement reached by LTV Corp. and Beaver County.

The agreement, detailed by Beaver County Solicitor Edward S. Young, would reduce the assessed value of LTV's Aliquippa Works by 51 percent, cutting the amount of taxes the company would pay.

The agreement could cost the city of Aliquippa 20 percent of next year's expected tax revenue, or about $389,000, in foregone tax revenue.

Push the right buttons and Mellon will pay your bills.

When it's time to pay the bills, most people reach for their checkbooks, their calculators, their stamps and the rest of their bill-paying paraphernalia.

But now you can just reach for your phone, call Mellon and we'll pay your bills for you. It's part of a new Mellon quality banking service called Bank-by-Phone and it's available 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. weekdays and 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. weekends.

You can even arrange for Mellon to make recurring payments for you automatically each month—like those for rent, mortgages and loans. These and other bills we've paid for you will be listed on your Mellon Combined Monthly Statement. At the end of the year you'll get an annual statement detailing all your bill-paying transactions. You'll find it's terrific for tax purposes and budgeting.

To get Bank-by-Phone you have to have an account at Mellon and a Mellon Banking Card. You also need a push-button phone with touch-tone service. There is a $3.00 monthly charge for the bill-paying service. But if you sign up before December 15, 1986, you'll get two months free.

All of which is a small price to pay for a service that will save you numerous trips to the bank and numerous hours writing checks, buying and licking stamps and looking for mailboxes. Time is money, after all.

Your phone can be your banker as well as your bill payer.

Mellon's Bank-by-Phone service will also let you do lots of things you used to have to do at the bank. And these services are free.

You can reach for the phone, check your balance and transfer money between your Mellon checking and savings accounts. If you need help, just push the right buttons and a customer service representative will be available to help you, from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. weekdays, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekends.

Now if you'd like to take advantage of our Bank-by-Phone service, just reach out and call us at 255-6522 in Pittsburgh (1-800-255-6522 outside of Pittsburgh).

At Mellon, quality banking is convenient banking and what could be more convenient than banking on your own phone at home, or in your office?

Winter weather problems for pets

Fall and winter not only bring cold weather, snow and ice but also pose problems for household pets, according to the Pennsylvania Veterinary [illegible]. The most common problems include licking antifreeze carelessly spilled in the garage or on the driveway, curing up on or under an automobile's hood and eating too many sweets during the holidays.

Antifreeze can be lethal to a dog or cat. It contains ethylene glycol which is sweet and tempting to the pet. Always clean up any spills of antifreeze in the garage or on the driveway. If your pet licks some or you suspect it has, contact your veterinarian immediately.

As the weather turns colder, cats like to sleep near a warm car engine. Made sure you know the location of your cat before starting the car.

Adequate shelter is most important if your pet must be outside at all. A dog house should be no more than three times the size of the dog and a blanket inside provides extra protection from the cold weather.

Just like people, pets burn more calories in the winter. Be sure your pet's diet is adequate and balanced. But be careful about too much holiday candy; too much candy is as bad for your pet as it is for owners. Stomachaches and cavities are the milder side effects while an overindulgence in chocolate can prove to be fatal.

Exercise classes

Mon Valley YMCA will begin exercise classes the week of Nov. 1.

A variety of exercises will be featured in the classes, which will meet twice a week for four weeks. Additional information is available at 483-8077.

IU I mini-conference held

The Curriculum and Instruction Department of Intermediate Unit I recently held its annual Mini-Conference at the Holiday Inn Meadowlands. There were 125 [illegible] in attendance at this all day event. The Conference was funded in part by a grant from the H.C. Frick Educational Commission.

The keynote speaker was Richard W. Strong, who in a fast paced session on staff development, presented a motivational rather than a rigid accountability approach. He suggested a format that includes the appropriate use of elements of power, working model.

Strong, a senior partner of Hanson, Silver, Strong and Associates cautioned against evaluating while the staff is practicing new skills and suggested separating evaluation from practice.

Joseph Werlinch, University of Pittsburgh, associate professor in [illegible] Harvard and now professor of education at Peabody College of Vanderbilt University did double duty as a small group session and luncheon speaker. The focus of his presentations was on organizational cultures. The luncheon address, "What Makes Your School Tick: Understanding the Culture" included many of the ideas from the book he coauthored "Corporate Cultures: The Rites and Rituals of Corporate Life." This provided insightful examination of the structure of organizations and how to work productively with the various roles people play.

Based on the evaluation of participants, the high calibre of presenters and selected topics offered regional educators an outstanding in-service experience.

evidence of "despair," a feeling of many adolescents. He reported on research compiled from interviews with students in western Pennsylvania. One of the findings that Mr. Welinch cited was "The single biggest need of the average student is for a mentor, validation, and individual contact in a positive dimension."

PSEA policy on drugs and alcohol

The Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) has adopted a drug/alcohol policy which states "local (teacher) associations must be involved in the development of local school district drug/alcohol abuse policies."

The PSEA policy was formulated in part as a result of recent state and national initiatives calling for across-the-board employee drug testing.

"Since PSEA represents almost 100,000 public employees in Pennsylvania we felt it was important that school boards know exactly where we stand on this complex and emotional issue," said PSEA President Nancy M. Noonan.

The policy statement — a first ever for PSEA on drug and alcohol abuse by employees — notes that public employers are prohibited by the courts from engaging in random testing of employees for drug usage.

Before requiring a test, employers must have probable cause to believe that the employee is using or is under the influence of illicit drugs, based on specific objective facts," the PSEA position points out.

PSEA indicates taht the primary objective of any alcohol or drug policy is rehabilitation of the employee. Any policy should encourage substance abusers to seek help voluntarily.

PSEA President Noonan warned that every school district policy should guarantee confidentiality and must also make sick leave, restoration of health leave, and unpaid leave available to the employee who is trying seriously to deal with the disability."

When employees are tested for drugs, the PSEA position states that the plan "should take into consideration that testing can be unreliable and that substantial liability can result when an employee is disciplined for refusing to take a drug test or when the discipline is based on a flawed positive test result."

Washington/Greene Prevention adds staff

Washington-Greene Prevention Corporation, which is licensed through the Pennsylvania Department of Health to provide Drug and Alcohol Prevention and Intervention services, has recently announced several new staff changes. Diane J. McQuillen was hired to assue the position of Executive Director in September. Prior to joining the staff at Prevention, Ms. Mcquillen served, for seven years, as Sexual Assault Program Director at the Womens Center in Beaver County. Ms. McQuillen has received an MSW from the University of Pittsburgh with a concentration in administration, social policy and planning. She brings with her extensive counseling, programmatic and advocacy expertise.

Catherine DeRicci Horwatt, a Prevention Specialist at Washington-Greene Prevention for the past two years, has been promoted to School Prevention Specialist. Mrs. Horwatt has a wide range of diversified experience providing Drug and Alcohol education, Intervetnion and Technical Assistance to schools, communities and industries within the bi-county area. Some of her accomplishments have included serving as co-coordinator of the "Smoking Deterrence Project, coordinator of the two-day Positive Teen Action Conference, co-coordinator of the "Natural Helper Project," and facilitator for Children of Alcoholics groups.

On Sept. 29 Vonnie Teagarden joined the staff as Prevention Specialist. For the past two years Ms. Teagarden has been employed by A.M.I., Inc. and was responsible for providing a viable social rehabilitation program for the mentally ill in Greene County. She has also gained a great deal of experience working with adolescents exhibiting drug and alcohol related problems during the five years she was employed as a counselor at the Youth Development Center in Waynesburg.

Murphy: reconstruction of Mon locks clears hurdles

"The last major hurdle has been cleared."

That was the reaction of U.S. Congressman Austin J. Murphy (D-Monongahela), when the House and Senate finally approved the Conference Report on the Water Resources Act, which contains authorization for reconstruction of Locks and Dams 7 and 8 on the Monongahela River.

The Conference Report, an agreement between the House and Senate authorizes approximately $16.3 billion for the construction of 282 new Army Corps of Engineers water projects. Of that $16.3 billion, $123 million is authorized for Lock and Dam 7 and $82.9 million is authorized for Lock and Dam 8. "These figures represent an increase of $28 million for Lock 7 and $19.9 million for Lock 8 above the amounts contained in the bill when it originally passed the House. The Corps of Engineers had to adjust their estimates of construction costs because of inflation," explained Murphy. "The previous estimates date back to 1984," he added.

The small dimensions of Lock 7 and Lock 8 both 56 feet by 360 feet are not compatible with the more modern larger locks on the Monongahela/Ohio River Systems.

A new lock, 84 feet by 720 feet and a new dam would be constructed upstream at Gray's Landing to replace the present Lock and Dam 7 which will be removed. At Lock and Dam 8, a new lock would be constructed landward of the existing lock. There would be now new dam construction, but the dam and right abutment would be rehabilitated.

These projects are two of only seven inland waterway projects included in the measure. One-half of the costs of construction would be paid from the existing Inland Waterways Trust Fund which is financed by a 10-cent-per-gallon tax on fuel paid by commercial users of 26 designated inland waterways.

"Although this action only authorizes these water projects and actual construction will require future appropriations, both locks 7 and 8 are high on the priority list of the Army Corps of Engineers," said Murphy. "Because of their deteriorating condition and the bottleneck they create on the Mon River, "I'm hopeful funding from the Corp's budget will be targeted to these projects very soon," added Murphy.

Commissioners seek aid to put Expressway link on list

The Washington County Commissioners are seeking legislative [illegible] their bid to have a missing link of the Mon Valley Expressway placed on the state's 12 Year Transportation Program.

The commissioners have asked State Senator J. Barry Stout, as a member of the State Transportation Commission and minority chairman of the Senate Transportation Commission, to support changes in the [illegible] program to make what's known as section B02 of the expressway. B02 would be the southern Mon Valley section of Washington County to Interstate 70. B02 completion would also benefit the western portion of Fayette County. Section B30, which is the interchange with [illegible] is set for construction letting next year. B02 would provide access to the Malden Industrial Park which is set to receive [illegible] in the current state budget, and [illegible] development.

The commissioners in their letter to Senator Stout said: "Given the present geography of the Mon Valley, the relocation of section B02 in the [illegible] program would make this entire corridor prime economic development land. Finally, it would appear as though Secretary [illegible] would have to object to section B02 being placed on the 12 year Transportation Program."

Pennsylvania Department of Transportation Secretary Thomas Larson told a recent meeting of the Mon-Fayette Expressway Association that he strongly supports the pursuit of the completion of the B02 link. Larson indicated that he felt the completion of B02 would make the existing sections of the expressway usable.

"The Mon Valley Expressway has been a top priority of county government for the past 20 years and is seen as a crucial element in any rejuvenation of the Mon Valley region," said the commissioners.

Pankey named to BBB board

Dr. Homer R. Pankey, vice president for Development and External Relations of California University of Pennsylvania, has been elected to the board of directors of the Better Business Bureau (BBB) of Western Pennsylvania.

A resident of Uniontown, Fayette County, Pankey sees his service on the BBBs board as further evidence of the commitment California University has to the people of the surrounding area.

"THE BBB receives over 500 calls per day from consumers who need help or advice. Many of those calls are from people in our local community. I am glad to be part of this worthwhile agency," he said.

Pankey will serve on the 30-person board that oversees the Pittsburgh-based, self-regulatory agency.

Since 1931, the Better Business Bureau has been helping with consumer inquiries and complaints and provides a number of consumer services including Tell Tips, pre-recorded phone messages that deal with various consumer topics such as the "Lemon Law."

The Philanthropic Advisory Service will tell consumers if certain agencies who seek donations meet accepted standard for percentage of distribution of funds.

The BBB will not recommend a specific contractor, but it will provide a business reference list to consumers who are looking for a specific service. It maintains a list of firms that have had complaints lodged against them about performance and releases that list to consumers.

Located at 610 Smithfield Street, Pittsburgh, the BBB can be reached by calling 412-456-2735.

Social for Tuesday Civic Club

"Showtime" highlighted the president's reception held by the Tuesday Evening Civic Club of Belle Vernon at the American Legion Home on October 21.

Mary Ann Lloyd and John Carosella, faculty members of Mon Valley Catholic High School, presented excerpts from "I Do! I Do!," a musical with which they opened the summer season at Mon Valley.

The book and lyrics are by Tom Jones, music by Harvey Schmidt and the play is based on "The Fourposter" by Jan deHartog. The Mon Valley performers adapted their own version of songs, music, dialogue, dancing and narration to tell the story of marriage from beginning to almost the end. Patty Bartolini was in charge of sound and accompaniment.

The [illegible] and "Together Forever" were well received and some of the novelty numbers attracted an ovation. This was the first such appearance of the two faculty members who are accomplished actors. Carosella operates the American Performing Arts Theatre Company in Greensburg.

The reception honored Theresa Luport, who served a club president previously for six years. She extended greetings. Prayer was led by the retiring president, Isabelle Hurley, who introduced the program.

Guests were present from Monessen Woman's Club, Fellsburg Women's Club and Belle Vernon Woman's Club.

Another highlight of the evening was the introduction and welcoming of new members by Bernadean Vance and Betty Griffith of the membership committee. Welcomed were Betty Jesick, who was reinstated, and new members June Hawk, Jean Silvestro, Rose Teano, Irene Gilmore and Annie Hayward.

A social hour followed and presiding at the flower appointed tea table were Grace Metzger, president of Woman's Club of Belle Vernon, and Mrs. Hurley. Fall floral appointments were used throughout the room. The social committee consisted of Margaret Brown, chairman, Selma Russell, co-chairman; Paula Weibl, Lorraine Rumbaugh, Maude McCauley and Helen Jesick, assisted by Bernadean Vance and Vivian Jesick.

On November 3, the club will sponsor the Red Cross Blood Bank at the North Belle Vernon Fireman's Social Hall on Broad Avenue from 1 until 7 p.m. Members will provide cookies and assist with the registration, canteen and other duties. It will be open to the public and donors are badly needed.

On November 18, the club will sponsor a public card party at the American Legion Home at 7:30 p.m. with Rose Kander and Selma Price as chairmen, assisted by all club members.

When the club meets on November 4 in the Legion Home, the speaker will be Dr. Paulette Sedlak, and hostesses will be Betty Griffith, Mrs. Vance and Vivian Jesick.

Winn-Pavlikowski rite

Holy Trinity Orthodox Church in Charleroi was the scene of the August 16 marriage of Jeri Pavlikowski and Patrick Winn. Father John Rachko officiated the traditional Orthodox ceremony. The Holy Trinity Orthodox choir sang responses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Pavlikowski of Donora and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Winn of Belle Vernon.

For her wedding, the bride chose a Victorian style gown of silk organza accented with a double ruffle chantilly lace yoke. To complete her attire, she chose a veil of chantilly lace with fingertip-length illusion. It featured sequins and seed pearls with a rose accent and draped pearls. She carried a flowing Lady Diana bouquet with trailing ivy draped hanging pearls, and spider pearls which hugged between the floral arrangement of karisma white roses, bridal frescias and tiger lilies [illegible] locket, belonging to her mother, was tucked into the bridal bouquet.

MR. & MRS. PATRICK WINN

Arlene and Darlene Pavlikowski, twin sisters of the bride, were their sister's co-maids of honor; Doreen Bergamasco, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid.

The attendants wore daphne rose organza gowns featuring ruffle trim and skirts pulled up at the back [illegible] for a bustled look. They wore dainty hair combs of spider pearls with a daphne rosebud with burgundy hairline ribbons draped to the side in crescent styles. They carried hand bouquets of daphne and burgundy roses with white silk karisma baby's breath and green silk fern.

Jamie Roberts, niece of the groom, was the flower girl. She wore a pink organza gown and halo of pink and daphne roses with pink and burgundy streamers. She carried a white wicker basket of pink, daphne and burgundy roses.

Guy Winn, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Frank Winn, brother of the groom, and Steve Baker.

The groom wore a white dinner jacket and black trousers with accents of a black cummerbund and bow tie with a pink designer stripe wing collar shirt. His boutonniere was a karisma white rose with frescias. The groomsmen were similarly attired except they wore accents of rose cummerbunds and bow ties. They had daphne rose boutonnieres.

Vincent Winn, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. He was dressed identical to the groomsmen. The pillow which he carried was made by his mother, Paula Winn, and featured needlepoint stitching in the color scheme of the wedding.

Balloons of burgundy, rose and white were released by the guests after the couple released their bridal balloon bouquet.

The reception was held at the Lock No. 4 Firehall. Rose branches, trees and champagne flower vases done in pink and burgundy decorated the hall. Wedding guests were from Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, Ohio; Maui, Hawaii and Rome, Italy.

After a honeymoon to Virginia, the couple is residing in a townhouse in Gahanna, Ohio.

The bride is a graduate of Ringgold High School-Donora Campus and Allegheny County Community College-South Campus. She is currently employed as a releasing representative cashier in the administrative office of St. Ann's Hospital in Westerville, Ohio. The groom is a graduate of Belle Vernon Area High School and is employed by Rockwell International-North American Aircraft Division, in Columbus, Ohio.

China growing as tourist attraction

PEKING (AP) — China is on another "long march" and is attracting an ever-growing number of tourists, reports Travel Agent magazine.

Last year the capital city received some 930,000 overseas visitors, contrasted with just a few thousand who entered China when it was opened once again to the world 12 years ago. Two million foreign visitors are expected to visit the city annually by 1990, and 4.3 million by the end of the century.

By 1990, 40,000 hotel rooms will be available in the capital for tourists, 23,000 more than were available last year, according to the publication. In addition, some 4,900 apartments and 4,200 offices will be available for overseas residents in the city.

To ensure that services for tourists will be up to western standards, the number of students at Peking Tourism College will increase to 1,200 by 1990, three times the number presently enrolled.

Young at Any Age

Program reaches out to elders

By EMILY WILKENS

Just because you're older, there's no sense sitting around worrying about what's going to happen next. Shelve an attitude that suggests you're not as young as you used to be and the road ahead is all downhill so why bother.

Why shelve it? Because it's bad for you. Depression is unhealthy. It undermines thinking and keeps you from taking steps to be in the best possible shape you can.

According to experts at Vanderbilt University Medical Center, depression leads to isolation and loneliness and can cause such problems as neglect of health and wellbeing and failure to take medicine. In fact depression is a step in the wrong direction — it's a step on the downhill slide.

At a new Vanderbilt clinic all efforts are being made to promote wellness among older patients.

According to Dora Ruck, gerontology program coordinator, older people have a higher incidence of chronic disease than younger ones. Her goal is preventive care, which involves picking up on little problems before they become big ones.

Maintaining Good Health

Ruck says this new program, supervised by the nursing staff, calls for putting older patients on "maintenance" so that fluctuating health problems are avoided. To put it another way, the program could be called "health education." It aims to teach self-care skills as well as management of such common problems as stress, hypertension and weight control, the effects of smoking, and the necessity of using medications properly.

Many of the elder patients in the program have problems dealing with aging, so the staff provides support, points out coping mechanisms, steers them to take steps to ensure good health.

Unhealthy Symptoms

Loneliness is an unhealthy symptom, Rusk says, because lonely people don't take care of themselves. For example, they skip meals, lose weight, forget to take medicines.

The program encourages participants to check in on a regular basis. By establishing this routine, they're plugging into what literally can be a life line.

"When they feel good, most older people only visit a doctor once a year," Rusk pointed out. "But when a crisis occurs, problems begin."

By participating in the program, older people are constantly in touch with a support system. Early screening at the program can pick up medical problems in their early, treatable stages. Moreover the program aims to make good health practices a habit.

Ruck sees the program's work as "holistic."

"We're trying to address all the needs of a patient," she said. "We're not just treating broken bones but, for example, the impact that disability has on the individual and the family."

She believes, as I believe, that "for successful aging, you need to do something now."

The program — called a Wellness Clinic — is conducted at Leah Rose Residence for Senior Citizens as part of the community outreach program of Vanderbilt University Medical Center, 1621 21st Ave. South, Nashville, Tenn. 37232.

Why not contact your local hospitals and see if they're thinking along these lines. If not, they should be.

Slavic Festival set at Holy Ghost Church

Plans were finalized for the Slavic Festival at the October meeting of the Ladies Guild of Holy Ghost Byzantine Catholic Church of Charleroi with president Mary Petruschak presiding. The opening prayer was offered for all deceased guild members.

Sunday, Nov. 9 is set for the Slavic Festival. The all-day affair will begin with dinners served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The usual grocery bingo will begin at 2 p.m. with dinners commencing again from 4:30 throughout the evening. It was decided that the menu will consist of chicken with parslied potatoes, coleslaw, dessert and beverage. Pirohi and halupki will also be served from 7 to 11 p.m. with the Nu Tones orchestra and an appearance by the Rusiny folk dancers at 7:30. Father Michael Buleza, pastor will conduct tours of the newly-renovated church at 4:30 and 8 p.m. In conjunction with the festival, a grocery social will be held in the church hall on Monday evening, Nov. 10 at 7 p.m., with special prizes awarded.

Margaret Meno, chairperson, reported that breakfast and luncheon foods will be served on Election Day, Tuesday, Nov. 4. Homemade pies may also be purchased.

Father Buleza announced the Charleroi Area Church Women are sponsoring a World Day of Prayer on Sunday, Nov. 2, at 2:30 p.m., at the Presbyterian Church with Father Kenneth Kocharhook, featured speaker.

Father commended the newly-formed Holy Ghost Choir who made their debut at the Speers United Methodist Church Choir Festival on October 26. He also thanked the guild for their monthly check towards the Food Pantry and all those who work consistently on this worthwhile project.

Tentative plans were made for a trip in December to Heinz Hall for the Handel's Messiah concert.

After the closing prayer, the September and October birthday celebrants were honored with a gift and cake from Father Buleza and all joined in singing "God Grant Them Many Years." Celebrants were Ann Chuhanic, Ann Dae Check, Harriet Labosh, Margaret Meno and Martha Shepelak.

Hostesses for the evening were Ann Chuhanic, Ann Dae Check and Irene Pollock.

Cash awards were won by Janet Calcara, Ann Chuhanic and Mary D. Didik.

Emergency identification for children

Adults carry all sorts of I.D. — credit cards, driver's licenses, medical insurance cards. Children need identification too, in case they're lost, injured or worse, abducted.

Kaufmann's offers a unique (and free) way to keep vital information with a child. Lifesaver I.D. Tags provide the child's name, age, address, emergency phone numbers, medical information and a consent form that provides a physician permission to carry-out emergency medical care.

Lifesaver I.D. Tags can be laced into shoes or sewn into the neck label of clothing. Information must be filled out with a water-resistant pen.

Lifesaver Charities, the makers of the tags, suggest that only the child's first initial be used, followed by the last name, and that labels be applied with the name side down.

Lifesaver I.D. Tags are available in all Kaufmann's stores in the Children's Department.

Indiana gymnastics has Monessen flavor

By BRIAN HERMAN
Sports Editor

Cleaning out the notebook:

A 10-year dream has finally come true for a pair of Monessen natives, Mike Bachuchin and his wife, the former Maria DeMarino, who now reside in Chesterton, Ind.

The Bachuchins have teamed with another former Monessen couple, Bob and Kathleen Greco Keleman, to make up Monessen West Corporation which transformed a former roller skating rink into the largest facility in northwest Indiana dedicated entirely to gymnastics.

Mike is owner and director of Lakeshore Gymnastics with Maria serving as program coordinator.

gymnastics circles, the Bachuchins have been invited by the United States Gymnastics Federation to be hosts for a visiting team in the 1987 Pan American Games next summer in Indianapolis.

The Bachuchins have won over 80 per cent of their matches in high school and YMCA competition and coached over 35 YMCA state champions and last year Maria was named Coach of the Year in Indiana after her Chesterton High team finished second in the state.

The 7,000 square foot roller rink turned gymnasium will have an 18 foot ceiling over the bars and vaulting areas and already boasts a spring floor of plywood sheeting supported by specially future, an in-ground vaulting pit - 8 feet wide, 15 feet long and filled six feet deep with foam - will be installed.

"The kids can do all the hard stuff without risk," said Bachuchin. "It gives them a big advantage in learning skills and gaining confidence."

Art Feldman, one of the better basketball players to come out of Monessen, will be among six men to be inducted into the Duquesne University Sports Hall of Fame Wednesday, Nov. 12.

A 1934 Duquesne graduate, Feldman starred on the 1932-33 Dukes who went 15-1 including a pair of one point victories over Pitt for the city championship.

Others to be honored include Joe Arnold, Henry Kuzma, Jim Dahler.

Charleroi Area High football fans will be able to see a pair of former Cougar standouts - running back Jim Edwards and linebacker Tim Cunningham - on national television next month

Edwards and Cunningham, both seniors, are starters at Indiana State University of Terre Haute, Ind., which will go to Northern Iowa Thursday, Nov. 13 in a 9 p.m. game to be carried on ESPN.

Cunningham is the Sycamores' leading tackler for the third straight season while Edwards is one of their leading rushers.

The Sycamores, who visit Cincinnati Saturday, snapped a five-game losing streak with a 27-0 romp over Buffalo State to Harry Joseph of Fayette City competed in the recent Walt Disney Pro-Am at Disney World in Orlando, Fla. Joseph's team finished sixth in a field of 132. Two other Western Pennsylvanians - Sam Guariglia of Vanderbilt and Paul Frye of Greensburg - also competed.

Prior to this season, Mon Valley Catholic's last losing football campaign was 1973 when the Spartans went 3-7 with victories over Frazier, Boyle and Johnsonburg

In case you missed it, South Allegheny High's football team won its first conference title (Three Rivers) this season since taking the Big 10 in 1976.

Susan Strenske, daughter of Ken Strenske one of the driving

Rostraver Softball League, finished fifth in the Open Trail class at the 27th annual Pennsylvania State Horse Show at the Farm Show Arena in Harrisburg. She's a Belle Vernon Area High junior.

The second annual Washington Invitational college basketball tournament, which was scheduled Nov. 21-22, at Trinity High has been cancelled after one of the four teams pulled out. As a result, California University of Pennsylvania and Waynesburg, which were scheduled to meet in a first round contest, won't play each other until Dec. 8 at a site and time to be determined.

Malone on Steelers' Mark

PITTSBURGH (AP) — You would think that Pittsburgh is Mark Malone's kind of town

He possesses an actor's good looks, conducts media interviews with patient professionalism and has an articulate, polished delivery that has paid off in numerous commercial endorsements and a weekly TV show

MALONE

In a city that worships its football team with a xenophobic brand of giddy hysteria, Malone would seem to possess all the qualities for stardom.

Malone quarterbacked the Steelers to within one game of the Super Bowl two years ago in his first full season as a starter, then passed for a respectable 15 touchdowns and mere seven interceptions last year despite missing half the season with a dislocated toe

But while Pittsburgh may adore its Steelers, it often demands perfection of them. Mark Malone need not be reminded of that

When the Steelers lost five of their first six games, Steelers' fans bombarded radio talk show hosts and TV station polls with demands that Malone be benched. Untried rookie Bubby Brister defeated Malone by a 12-to-1 margin in a quarterback popularity poll conducted by the same television station where Malone co-hosts a weekly Steelers' pre-game show

Malone, hampered by a sprained right thumb, yielded to Brister for two games, then returned Sunday to direct the Steelers' second victory in eight games, a 30-9 rout of the Cincinnati Bengals. He completed 12 of 20 passes for 104 yards and two touchdowns

The give-us-Bubby-or-anybody-but-Malone outcry died down after Brister endured a miserable 9-of-27, two-interception performance in the Steelers' 34-0 loss Oct. 19 to the New England Patriots. Steelers Coach Chuck Noll said the much-maligned Malone remains his starter, barring injury.

Malone, aware of the fickleness of fandom, has refused to criticize even those rooters who pleaded via the radio for Terry Bradshaw to end his two-year retirement and return to quarterback the Steelers to the Super Bowl.

"It is going to be tough in this town for any quarterback unless he takes the Steelers to the Super Bowl or puts them in a position to do that Malone said. "This is a town that has does not enjoy losing ... this town has not accepted any quarterback since Terry Bradshaw."

Malone, 27, has completed 82 of 178 passes for 862 yards, six touchdowns and 10 interceptions in six games

"He is like any other quarterback, if his supporting cast does well, he does well ... it takes more than one guy. The quarterback often receives too much blame when a team loses," Noll said.

Noll does not agree Steelers' fans will accept no quarterback than Bradshaw or that successors Cliff Stoudt, David Woodley and Malone have been unable to escape Bradshaw's imposing shadow.

"It is a matter of coming in and doing the job," Noll said. "If you do the job, then there is no shadow There was no talk about it when we were in the (1984) playoffs, when we were in the (American Conference) championship game. It is when things aren't going right that a lot of these things come up."

Malone's quarterback rating of 48.5 remains among the lowest in the NFL, but Noll said he did an expert job of directing the Steelers' running game against Cincinnati Earnest Jackson (132) and Walter Abercrombie (109) combined for 241 rushing yards in the Steelers' first victory in their past five games against the Bengals.

"Mark Malone just did a heck of a job with the running attack ... he was exceptional," Noll said "Our players didn't like the way things were going and we had a bunch of guys who wanted it badly and made it happen.

"Mark helps us from a direction standpoint, he's a leader on the field and does an excellent job of recognizing defenses and applying to what we want to do. Mark Malone is a quarterback we can win with."

Golden Panthers to hear Pitt cage assistants

Two new Pitt assistant basketball coaches - Mark Coleman and Norm Law - will be guest speakers at Thursday's Mon Valley Golden Panther meeting at 8 p.m. at Peasant Village Restaurant in Rostraver Township.

COLEMAN

Coleman was an assistant at three different schools - George Mason, Canisius and Vermont - the past three years

He starred four years at St Lawrence University where he played for first year Pitt mentor Paul Evans as a freshman The '80 team went 22-5 for the best record in the school's history and advanced to the NCAA playoffs

Coleman, 24, is a native of Henrietta, N.Y., a suburb of Rochester

Law, 47, comes to Pitt from Plattsburgh (N.Y.) State University where he had been head coach for the past 17 years

He had an overall 175-200 record at Plattsburgh with his 1976 club advancing to the NCAA Division III Final Four in the most successful season in the school's history

A basketball and baseball standout at Brockport (N.Y.) State University, Law is a member of the school's Athletic Hall of Fame

He coached against Evans while Evans was at St Lawrence University from 1973-80

Graduate assistant Domenic Berardinelli will also be on hand

Steve Maslek and Rod Brookings will be the two Pitt players attending

Whalers' defense stops Penguins

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Ray Ferraro was off to a slow start. But with back-to-back two-goal games, the Hartford center has made a quick recovery.

Ferraro, who scored 30 goals a year ago in his first full National Hockey League season, scored on a pair of breakaways in the third period Tuesday night to help trigger the Whalers past the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-2

"Both plays were off great passes and on 1-on-1 plays, that's where I have to excel, especially on chances like that," said Ferraro

Ferraro, who now has five goals, also assisted on Torrie Robertson's game-winner at 4:56 of the third period that snapped a 2-2 tie as the Whalers, 4-2-1, won their third straight game

Hartford, stung twice on goals by Pittsburgh center Mario Lemieux, contained Lemieux's teammates and handed the Penguins only their second loss in 10 games

"All we tried to do was try to keep the puck away from Lemieux," said Whaler Coach Jack Evans "We didn't try anything special but I think, defensively, this was our best game this year."

Lemieux scored twice to run his league-leading total to 14 but Hartford's overall checking limited the Penguins to just 20 shots and only 10 in the final two periods.

"Hartford worked hard and forced us to make mistakes," said Pittsburgh Coach Bob Berry who was ejected from the game at 15:51 of the third period after protesting a number of calls by referee Mike Noeth "We let the game get ahead of us in the second period and got too fancy."

Robertson's goal was nothing fancy, just a backhander through a maze of players in front of goalie Robert Romano after Ferraro and Dave Barr worked the puck off the boards.

Robertson snapped a 2-2 tie at 4:26 and Ferraro completed his second straight two-goal game with breakaway scores at 9:58 on a pass from Ulf Samuelsso and at 15:51 on a pass from Scot Kleinendorst

"We played a good game along the boards and checked them to limit their chances," said Ferraro.

Hartford reversed a 1-0 deficit by scoring twice within a 1:48 span early in the second period to overtake the Penguins, who built their lead on Lemieux's power-play goal in the first period.

Kevin Dineen scored at 4:07 as Ron Francis beat Lemieux on a faceoff to the right of Pittsburgh goalie Roberto Romano Dineen slipped past defenseman Moe Mantha to grab the puck and tied the game 1-1

Hartford used the power play for its next goal at 5:55 Paul Lawless scored during a goalmouth scramble by putting home a rebound of a shot by Stewart Gavin.

In the third period, the Penguins tied the game 2-2 when Lemieux took a feed from Bob Errey and broke in alone from the blue line to beat Whalers goalie Mike Liut at 1:56

Contest winner

Patrick Crilley of Belle Vernon was last week's winner in The Valley Independent football contest.

Gottfried: Have long way to go

PITTSBURGH (AP) — His team scored 56 points in three quarters last week, has won four of its past five games and has one of the nation's most productive quarterbacks You would think Pitt Coach Mike Gottfried would be a happy guy Think again. Gottfried is the only coach in college football whose team still must play the nation's two top-ranked teams, top-rated Miami and No. 2 Penn State.

"I don't know how good we are, Gottfried said Tuesday. "I guess we'll find out in the next four weeks."

Gottfried's primary task this week is to keep his Panthers' attention focused on Saturday's game at Syracuse and off next week's visit to Pitt Stadium by star quarterback Vinny Testaverde and the Miami Hurricanes.

"Our players understand that we've lost to (Syracuse) the last two seasons, that with the four games we have remaining — Syracuse, Miami, Rutgers, Penn State — it's a week-to-week situation," Gottfried said. "We have a long way to go. Our kids know what can happen if we don't take it one week at a time."

The Panthers, 4-2-1, crushed Navy 56-14 last week, outscoring the Midshipmen 35-0 in a third quarter in which the Pitt defense scored three touchdowns on two pass interceptions and a fumble recovery.

"When I came here from the Big Eight Conference, I wasn't certain where we were talent-wise ... I didn't know whether we would win five games, six games, seven games, eight games," said Gottfried, former coach at Kansas.

"What I know is that we're not there yet, we are not near where I want us to be. I know that our offense feels good about the defense and vice versa, and that's a good feeling . . but we have a long way to go."

Syracuse, a winner only once in its first six games until the Orangemen surprised Temple 27-24, won at Pitt 12-0 last year in a driving rainstorm and 13-10 two years ago in the Carrier Dome.

Pitt's last victory was in 1983, when walk-on Pat Viancourt kicked what remains his only collegiate field goal to beat the Orange 13-10 in Pittsburgh

"I don't think I have to remind our players what's happened the last two seasons," Gottfried said.

Gottfried said Syracuse, especially versatile quarterback Don McPherson, presents problems to Pitt's defense because the Panthers have faced only one other team, North Carolina State, that runs the option offense.

McPherson leads Syracuse in rushing (418 yards and four touchdowns) and has completed 96 of 163 passes for 1,105 yards, six touchdowns and three interceptions.

Driesell quits at Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Lefty Driesell, apparently seething over his forced ouster, stepped aside today after 17 years as basketball coach at the University of Maryland and four months after the cocaine-induced death of All-American Len Bias.

DRIESELL

Driesell said he was proud of the program and even prouder of the student athletes.

After making a simple, short statement, Driesell turned and walked away from the podium

Driesell's action didn't surprise Jim Kehoe, the retired athletic director who hired the coach in 1969

"Why would he want to share the platform with the man who sacked him?" he asked

Paterno downplays Lions' No. 2 ranking

STATE COLLEGE, Pa (AP) — Penn State Coach Joe Paterno has practically made a career of poohpoohing college football polls, so not surprisingly he said Tuesday that the Nittany Lions' rapid rise to the No 2 spot made no difference to him

He can only hope his squad feels the same

"I haven't thought about it," Paterno said of the latest Associated Press poll in which undefeated Penn State moved from sixth place to second, courtesy of a 23-3 thrashing of Alabama

"I think we've got to settle down and get off cloud nine and start thinking about playing a good football game against West Virgi-weekly conference call I've not paid attention to the polls all year, and I'm not going to start doing it right now not when we're coming down the stretch"

The stretch includes Saturday's game in Morgantown with 2 5 West Virginia and later with 4 3 Maryland, 2-4 Notre Dame and 4-2 1 Pittsburgh marks for their performance in Tuscaloosa Saturday calling it "a great win

I thought our team played well in just about every facet of the game," the coach said "I thought our offensive line after we looked at the films probably played the best game they've played in a couple of years'

Quarterback John Shaffer completed 13 of 17 passes for 168 yards and no interceptions and Penn State ran the ball on 51 of its 68 plays for 210 yards

There were a lot of things in the football game that we did not do as well as I think we can" Paterno said 'I think the old saying 'You're never as good as you think you are when you win,' probably holds true even for this particular game But I've got to be careful because I don't want to nitpick They did have a tremendous effort"

The coach stopped short, however, of pronouncing his team, making its second bid for college football's national championship in two years a "great team," despite his prediction that Alabama's game would decide that "I think that's a little premature to call them great," said Paterno, who is calculatedly cheap with praise

"Whether they can handle four tough games coming up in a row with people who are going to zero right in on them people who could make their seasons great by beating us' would determine Penn State's caliber

"They're on the verge of becoming a really outstanding football team" he concluded

West Virginia Coach Don Nehlen didn't need any prompting, however, calling the Lions 'the best Penn State team in about 40 years"

Paterno attributed West Virginia's five-game losing streak to a lot of "bad luck" and problems Nehlen has had at quarterback

Referring to Mountaineer quarterback Benny Reed who completed 14 of 28 passes for 201 yards, one touchdown and two interceptions in his start last week against Boston College, Paterno said "It happens to a lot of young quarterbacks The concentration wasn't there'

"They didn't win the game because they made a couple of careless plays,' said Paterno adding that he assumed Nehlen has worked on the problems and 'that Reed will play better and make fewer mistakes West Virginia lost to BC 19-10

Hoyt arrested

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego Padres pitcher Lamarr Hoyt was arrested Tuesday night at the San Ysidro border crossing by U S Customs agents when he allegedly tried to bring hundreds of illegal pills into the United States, a Customs spokesman said

Mike Fleming, public affairs officer for the U S Customs Pacific Region, said Hoyt was stopped as he walked across the border from Mexico about 7 p m PDT

According to Fleming, an inspector got suspicious when he noticed a bulge in Hoyt's clothing and took Hoyt to a secondary inspection area for a pat-down search The search revealed two plastic bags in Hoyt's groin area containing 322 Valium tablets, 100 Quaaludes, and 30 unidentified tablets, Fleming said

This was Hoyt's third run-in with the law this year. The former Cy [illegible] at the border in February after U S Customs agents found illegal pills on him Also in February, San Diego police stopped Hoyt and cited him for carrying marijuana cigarettes and a switchblade

Feedback on P&G gems giveaway

By MARTIN SLOANE

"Thank you for writing such a nice article on the 1986 Gems Giveaway," wrote Marcos Rada, one of the Hill and Knowlton public-relations representatives working for Procter & Gamble.

Last spring, I wrote about P&G's promotion offering real gemstones in specially marked packages of Bounce, Spic and Span, Safeguard and Camay. I really wasn't sure about consumer response to P&G's effort at "making sales by [illegible] ing the stone," so I asked readers to tell me what they thought about it.

In his letter, Rada provided me with the names and phone numbers of the first two consumers who had reported finding diamonds in their P&G product packages.

Diane Wedel of Burbank, Ill., and her mother, Mary Biangmano, saw [illegible] supermarket in Oaklawn. The sign on the display announced that there were genuine gemstones in packages of Camay, Safeguard, Spic and Span and Bounce, and that the top stone, a diamond, was worth $500.

Diane and her mother bought two multi-bar packs of Camay and didn't think much about it until a few evenings later, when Diane's son John walked into the living room and showed them the packet he had just found among the soap bars. Inside was a diamond.

Diane was thrilled and quickly called Procter & Gamble to let them know that she was one of their big winners. The public-relations people called back, all excited. In fact they called back three times that day. Diane was going to be interviewed by newspapers and magazines and appear on television. They also asked her what kind of a mounting she would like for her diamond. Diane wanted it mounted in a ring.

A photographer for a local paper came by, and Diane's picture appeared in the paper holding up the diamond with a tweezer. But that was it. No one ever called again, and Diane never received the ring for mounting her diamond.

After waiting several months, Diane asked her father to take the [illegible] to a jeweler and sell it. The first jeweler said the stone was full of flaws and offered $60. When a second jeweler offered $50, the first jeweler got the "prize."

Diane sounded a little disappointed, but she said it was still the best prize she had ever found in a package of soap.

Kathie Martin of Birmingham, Ala., was more pleased with her diamond. Her jeweler, who charged her $25 for putting it in a pendant mounting, said it had one flaw and was worth about $300. "It was the luckiest thing that has ever happened to me, besides meeting my husband," said Kathie.

Most readers who wrote to me telling of their experiences with P&Gs "Gems Giveaway" were not as enthusiastic as Kathie. A letter from Beverly Gimpelson of Virginia Beach, Va., seemed to sum up their feelings:

"The gems were a real waste of advertising money for P&G. The only thing you can do with a poor-quality one-third-carat garnet is dump it into the aquarium to brighten up the life of the goldfish. I would rather have an opportunity to win real dollars — or other P&G products."

The most positive response to this particular promotion, in fact, came from a reader who found so many P&G [illegible] packages ripped open, with the gems taken, that she could hardly wait for the supermarket to load them into the store's "scratch and dent" bins and offer them at half price.

Average pay raises drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Average annual pay increases have dropped to 3.5 percent over the last year, down from average raises of 5 percent for the 12 months ending Oct. 1, 1985, the Labor Department reported Tuesday.

White-collar workers have received annual wage and salary increases averaging [illegible] percent over the last 12 months while blue-collar workers have seen their [illegible] drop to an average 2.5 percent, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Over the same 12 months a year earlier, white-collar workers had enjoyed pay raises averaging 5.4 percent while blue collar workers received average wage increases of 4.3 percent, the BLS said in its quarterly report on employment costs.

Since June 1981, five months after President Reagan took office, workers in private industry have seen their pay checks rise 28.8 percent, the bureau said.

During that same time, the Consumer Price Index has risen 21.7 percent, according to government figures, an indication that wages are keeping well ahead of inflation in contrast to the 1978-81 period, when they fell behind price increases.

By region the largest annual pay gains over the past 12 months have been in the Northeast, 4.3 percent, down from 5.2 percent a year earlier.

For other regions, the BLS reported average annual wage gains of:

★ South, 3.2 percent, down from 4.9 percent.

★ Midwest, 2.3 percent, down from 4.0 percent.

★ West, 2.1 percent, down from 5.5 percent.

Lasagna roll-ups make hearty meal

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens Food Editor

Lasagna noodles are a staple in my cupboard because they can be used to make many main dishes in addition to the familiar layered lasagna. I like to spread the cooked noodles with filling and roll them individually. These meatless spinach rolls are halved and arranged so the spiral layers show.

LASAGNA SPINACH ROLL

½ cup hot water
One 10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach, thawed
1-3rd cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Two 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
1 egg yolk
2-3rds cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup plain yogurt
6 lasagna noodles, cooked and drained

In a blender container or food processor bowl place water, spinach, 2 tablespoons of the Parmesan, the oil, garlic, lemon juice and salt. Cover; blend or process until smooth. Set aside. Combine cream cheese, egg yolk, half the nuts, yogurt and remaining Parmesan.

Pat noodles dry. Spread each with a scant ¼ cup cream cheese mixture; roll up. Cut rolls in half, forming two spirals. Spread 2 tablespoons spinach mixture in each of six 10-ounce baking dishes. Place 2 rolls, cut side down, in each dish, pour remaining spinach mixture over. Bake, covered in a 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. Uncover top with remaining nuts. Bake 5 minutes. (Or place ¼ cup spinach mixture in 13 by 9 by 2-inch baking dish, top with rolls and remaining spinach mixture.) Bake, covered, in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Uncover, top with remaining nuts. Bake 5 minutes. Serves 6.

Herb garden flavor to yeast bread

The Associated Press

Whole wheat flour, cornmeal and herbs give this bread real country flavor. Bake a loaf to serve with homemade vegetable-beef soup.

CORNMEAL HERB BREAD

1½ to 1¾ cups all-purpose flour
1 package active dry yeast
½ cup hot water (120 degrees)
One 5-ounce can evaporated milk
¼ cup honey
¼ cup cooking oil
[illegible]
1 beaten egg
1½ cups whole wheat flour
¾ cup cornmeal
½ teaspoon dried sage, crushed
½ teaspoon dried basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon dried celery seed
¼ teaspoon dried dillweed
1 beaten egg yolk
2 teaspoons sesame seed

In a large mixer bowl combine 1½ cups of the all-purpose flour and the yeast. In a bowl combine water, evaporated milk, honey, oil and salt; stir until salt is dissolved. Add to [illegible] mixture; add egg. Beat with electric mixer on low speed 30 seconds, scraping bowl constantly. Beat on high speed 3 minutes. Stir in whole wheat flour, cornmeal, sage, basil, celery seed, dillweed and as much all-purpose flour as you can mix in with a spoon. On lightly floured surface knead in enough remaining flour to make a moderately stiff dough (8 to 10 minutes). Shape into a ball, place in greased bowl. Cover, let rise until double (about 1½ hours).

Punch down; shape into a ball. Cover, let rest 10 minutes. Shape into loaf, place in greased 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan. Let rise until double. Brush dough with mixture of egg yolk and 1 tablespoon water; sprinkle with sesame seed. Bake in a 375-degree oven for about 30 minutes; cover with foil after 20 minutes. Makes 1 loaf (12 servings).

Tricked by AIDS friend

DEAR ABBY: I went to visit a good friend who said he had leukemia. After I got there and spent an hour or so talking to him, he broke down and told me that he had AIDS! Do you think that was fair? Don't you think he should have told me he had AIDS before I went to visit him so I could decide whether I wanted to go or not?

Even though we don't know where it comes from or how contagious it is, they say, "Be cautious." There is a lot of confusion about this disease so I hope you answer this in your column. If you do, please don't mention my name. — NO NAME IN NEW YORK

DEAR NO NAME: There is no conclusive evidence that AIDS can be transmitted any way other than through: (1) Sharing a contaminated needle with an infected person. (2) Intimate sexual contact. (3) Being born of a parent with AIDS. (4) Receiving a blood transfusion. (A person who has received a blood transfusion is no longer a threat since all blood is tested for the AIDS virus before it is used in a transfusion.)

People with AIDS should tell prospective visitors the truth about their illness, even though it's not possible for a casual visitor to contract it

* * * * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing an article from your column that made a big difference in my life. I have carried it in my wallet for years and it helped me so much. I'm sure you can help many more if you run it again. — ST. PETERSBURG FAN

DEAR FAN: You get your wish. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wealthy widow who picks up the tab for an escort 20 years her junior who couldn't possibly afford to take her to the places she's accustomed to going? In his line of work he could never treat her on his salary.

There can't possibly be any romance in this combination, but he is attractive, flatters her, dances with her, and she seems to enjoy this setup while he is taking her for all she's worth. Meanwhile all her [illegible] her back. It's really pitiful.

Why can't some women realize there is more dignity in sitting home than buying an escort? — ON THE SIDELINES

DEAR ON: I take it you are sitting home. Perhaps this woman also sat home long enough to have concluded that she didn't like it.

All that is necessary for a successful relationship is that two people "need" each other. She needs him. And he needs her. And as long as they aren't hurting anybody, who am I to judge them? And who are you?

* * * * * *

DEAR ABBY: I've just stepped out of my shower, ready to start my day, and it's car alarm time — just as it was car alarm time yesterday, and the day before. Car alarms seem to go off regularly for no reason whatsoever. It's highly unlikely that the same thief has been ripping off the same stereo in the same car for the past three days running.

Car alarms are not crime stoppers; they are noise polluters. What good are they if no one's around to respond to the "call"? (A friend of mine lost three car stereos, and her car alarm worked every time.) If someone wants to steal the entire car, he can just sit out the 30 minutes of siren with the rest of us — and THEN heist the wheels.

Please ask your readers to consider those of us who are not crying to steal their car stereos. If they want to turn on the car alarm in their own driveways with their ears cocked for sounds of crime, fine, but a deserted car with its alarm blasting away should be a towable offense! — DAZED IN STUDIO CITY

DEAR DAZED: I agree. A car alarm is effective only if the owner is around to hear it. Ignored alarms are a headache, an earache and a pain in the posterior to all others within earshot.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1986

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
On the job, rely on common sense and good judgment rather than charm. You'll clarify a confusing matter with a close tie. The financial picture improves.

TAURUS
(Apr. 20 to May 20)
It takes perspiration — not inspiration — to get the job done. A turning point is reached in a relationship. Dealings with children are favored.

GEMINI
(May 21 to June 20)
You should be able to accomplish a lot on the job today. Fantasy in romance must give way to a more realistic appraisal of your needs.

CANCER
(June 21 to July 22)
Creative work is especially favored. Feelings are quite intense now, which is all the more reason why they should be talked about. Let practicality rule at home.

LEO
(July 23 to Aug. 22)
You're the smart shopper today. Watch daydreaming on the job. Pay attention. Bring a creative project or other mental work to completion.

VIRGO
(Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)
Make important phone calls early when you're at your best. Avoid games of chance now. Attend to domestic responsibilities tonight.

LIBRA
(Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
A project you've been working on for days is finally done. You'll make an important financial decision. Evening hours favor study and other serious thought.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
You're smart enough to see through the games that others may play today. You'll feel a renewal of self-confidence. Tackle unfinished tasks.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
Chats about business should be of a private nature. Be a good friend without becoming financially involved. Research projects are favored.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan 19)
News comes from a distance. You'll need to do further investigating about a career concern. You're at a crossroads with a friend or group.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 20 to Feb. 18)
Business talks are accented. A friend may call on you for assistance. A legal point should be clarified. Higher-ups jockey for position.

PISCES
(Feb. 19 to Mar. 20)
You're still on the same wavelength with a close tie. Don't involve a friend in a business matter. Convictions are strong now.

IF BORN TODAY, you bring a disciplined approach to creative work. You may be a perfectionist in what you do. Though somewhat set in your opinions, you are loyal and conscientious. You tend to test others before they gain your trust. Be careful not to be domineering or too exacting. Dramatic by nature, you may have a special talent for the [illegible] may also appeal to you. Birthdate of: Ruth Gordon, actress; Ezra Pound, poet; and Christopher Columbus, explorer.

Sheinwold on Bridge

The Setting Trick

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You can fall asleep while leading an ace Today's East did the job with the ace of hearts at the second trick

South ruffed and knocked out the ace of diamonds Too late, East shifted to a spade South won in dummy drew trumps and ran the clubs to get rid of two spades Game and rubber for North-South

After taking the first heart, East should see the danger of spade discards on dummy's clubs. East's only defense is to set up and cash a spade trick before South can run the clubs

CORRECT SHIFT

If awake, East should lead a spade at the second trick. West's king drives out the ace, and East takes the setting trick with the queen of spades when he gets in with the ace of diamonds

East needn't worry about the danger of leading a spade since if South has the king of spades, he will win two spades and four clubs and therefore no game if he can get five diamond tricks. South can hardly have fewer than six diamonds to the K-Q for his vulnerable overcall.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: ♠9 5 3 ♡Q ◇K Q J 10 9 8 4 ♣9 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three diamonds, regardless of vulnerability At rubber bridge, your honors soothe your feelings if you get nothing from your partner. At duplicate, in theory the opponents may collect 500 or 800 points, but in practice this almost never happens It's hard for the opponents to double and make the double stick when your trumps are so strong. As long as you're not going to be penalized, bid your hand to the limit.

Specter is buoyed by status in polls

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Democratic challenger Bob Edgar dismissed three new polls showing he trails in the U.S. Senate race by up to 22 points, but incumbent Arlen Specter hailed the results as a backlash against his opponent's negative campaign tactics.

"There is an unmistakable scent of victory in the air," Specter said Tuesday night at the Republican City Committee dinner.

"He's been doing negative advertising. He has conducted a campaign that's negative about me," Specter said.

But Edgar, who has won six elections in a heavily Republican congressional district, dismissed the latest numbers.

"The polls don't measure the intensity of unity. The polls don't measure the enormous grass-roots network that's been put in place. I point, within 10 points of Arlen Specter," Edgar said at the Lackwanna County Democratic dinner.

Specter had a lead of 52-32 with 16 percent undecided in a poll done for KWY-TV by KRC Research of Cambridge, Mass. The poll has a margin of error of 5 percent, with 400 people being polled Oct. 25 and 26.

Specter had a 40-27 lead with 31 percent undecided. The poll of 800 registered voters had a margin of error of 3.5 percent. In a poll taken two weeks ago, Specter had a lead of 8 points.

A poll conducted by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and Philadelphia Daily News showed the widest margin, 57 percent for Specter and 35 percent for Edgar. The figures came from voters who said they were likely to cast ballots next Tuesday. Among all voters, Specter's lead was 55-34.

The survey, conducted during the weekend, questioned 773 registered voters. It has a margin of error of 4 percentage points.

"Those figures are great, but I think they're too good to be true. They have to tighten," Specter said during a campaign stop at a steel mill in Chester County.

"I've been waiting for these polls to tighten. If they were to hold up, it would be the most decisive edge in the state by far," Specter said.

With one week before the election, both candidates campaigned in the eastern half of the state Tuesday.

Edgar stressed transportation issues at the 69th street terminal, a busy elevated train-subway-bus stop on the Philadelphia-Delaware County line.

"Arlen Specter voted for every one of the president's budgets which slashed federal capital funds and operating subsidies for mass transit programs in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and cities all across Pennsylvania. I didn't vote for those budget cuts," Edgar said.

Edgar shook hundreds of hands at the crowded transit stop, pursued voters lunching and shopping at a center city food market and then attended a steelworkers rally and the party dinner in Scranton.

Specter touted his trade bill outside a steel mill in Coatesville, saying federal courts should have jurisdiciton over stemming the flow of subsidized foreign imports.

"It would make an enourmous increase in steel production if we stopped dumped and subsidized steel," Specter said at the corporate headquarters of Lukens Inc. The Lukens Steel Division makes steel plate for submarines, aircraft carriers and army tanks.

Bringing subsidized steel into the country violates U.S. law, but enforcement by the International Trade Commission can be overruled by the president. Specter's trade bill would allow companies to appeal to federal courts and seek injunctions to halt imports.

"Steel is being traded off on foreign policy concerns," Secter said. "The courts are where blacks and women get justice. I'd like to see American business get justice."

Turns in parents

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 10-year-old girl who told authorities her mother was freebasing cocaine has been taken away from her family and put in protective custody, police said. The girl's call to the 911 emergency number from a pay phone night resulted in the arrest of her parents and another man. It was the fourth such case in California in the last three months. "She was very concerned for her mother's safety," Officer Margie Reed said. "I think she did it totally out of love."

Arms shipments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Mi-24 helicopter gunships, delivered this month, are among the record amount of arms the Soviet Union is shipping to Nicaragua this year to help "the repressive abilities" of the Sandinista government, the Pentagon says. The Soviets not only have supplied the leftist Nicaraguan government with more arms this year than ever before, but they are doing it in an increasingly open way, using Soviet ships rather than vessels from other Eastern European nations, Pentagon spokesman Robert Sims said Tuesday.

Call from Contras

WASHINGTON (AP) — The office of a White House staff member overseeing U.S. support for Nicaraguan Contra rebels received telephone calls last month from a safe house in El Salvador used by Americans handling supply flights for the rebels, Salvadoran phone bills show. During September, calls were made to two private lines used by Marine Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, a staff officer on President Reagan's National Security Council. Both lines were answered Tuesday by a tape-recorded message saying "you have reached a non-working number for the executive office of the president."

Thai plane probe

TOKYO (AP) — An official today said investigators believed an explosion may have been responsible for a Thai jetliner's near disaster, but refused to speculate on whether it could have been a bomb. However, three mass circulation newspapers said Osaka police experts suspected a hand grenade or similar device blew up after being hidden in a lavatory by Japanese "yakuza" gangsters who boarded the plane during a Manila stopover on the Bangkok-Osaka flight.

Bell's bid fails

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Former U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell flies home today after being barred from meeting a captured American mercenary to help prepare his defense. Bell, who headed the Justice Department during the Carter administration, said the Nicaraguan government's refusal Tuesday to permit the meeting was a "moral outrage." Eugene Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., was taken prisoner by Sandinista soldiers Oct. 6 after the C-123 cargo plane he was on was shot down in southern Nicaragua while transporting aid to U.S.-backed Contra rebels.

Shades of Just Us set at Belle Tavern

Variety is the key for Bentleyville-based Shades of Just Us, featured Friday at the Belle Tavern, Main Street, Belle Vernon. Show time is 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m.

"We play a wide variety of music," said Diane Koslosky, keyboardist, co-lead singer and organizer of the band. "We play country and contemporary crossover music."

"We also do a set of 50's and 60's oldies and some Top 40. There's nothing we can't or won't play."

And in the 11 years that Diane has been playing, including 10 years as the original member of her present group, there probably isn't much that she hasn't played. Diane best described the band's original songs as a mix of modern country and crossover contemporary styles. She likens her influences to Elvis Presley, Tanya Tucker and Roseann Cash.

If variety is one of the elements that makes "Shades of Just Us" successful, stability must be a second. While band members often come and go in today's music world, especially for a local, full-time group trying to get its first break, Shades has had the same two women, three man combo for the past five years. All from the valley, the groups members include Koslosky and her sister Patty Grachen, rhythm guitarist and co-lead vocalist, both of Bentleyville; from Belle Vernon; Eddie O'Neil, lead guitarist and vocalist, from Donora, and Guy Cared on drums.

The band's first single gained local notoriety from two different sources. The "A" side, a country-flavored song called "It's Not Over," received airplay of WASP radio station. The "B" side song, "Gypsey Heart," which Koslosky calls "a more contemporary song," was the winner in WESA's Battle of The Bands.

Backed by Teeka Productions out of Bentleyville, the group does all of its recording at Automation Studios in Belle Vernon. The band recently laid down the tracks for four new songs, two by Koslosky and two by Wall, which will be released by January.

Koslosky has been playing the keyboards for the past four years, but singing most of her life either professionally or for fun. Koslosky said the band's future goals are to tour nationally and to sign a major recording deal.

"Performing is something that I really enjoy," said Koslosky. "To me, it's like a paid hobby. My writting gives me a chance to express myself."

"When I look out there (in the crowd) and see the people laughing and having a good time, its a good feeling. For me, it's a way to make the people happy."

State Library gets jobs grant

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Library of Pennsylvania has been awarded a $673,000 grant by the Kellogg Foundation to establish employment and job-counseling programs in five state libraries, Gov. Dick Thornburgh has announced.

"This grant marks another milestone in our efforts to open the doors of information for all Pennsylvanians by providing better library service," Thornburgh said.

Thornburgh said the grant, when pooled with state and local funds, will allow the five libraries to link up with computerized job-service data bases. He said the participating libraries will provide job counseling as well as information and outreach services.

The Free Library of Philadelphia and the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, which presently provide career-related information, have been chosen to participate in the program. Three additional libraries will be chosen later this year, Thornburgh said.

W-P Seeks Tax Reduction

at a price of $10 poer square foot.

"We can't be misled by old sales of buildings which were abandoned and available," said Fleming. "We can't be misled. The smoke is still coming out of these buildings."

Noting that many of Mendelson's comparable sales were buildings that were either under 400,000 square feet or over 3 million square feet, Barbara Rizzo, solicitor for the California Area School District, asked Fleming what importance does similar size play in the validity of comparable sales.

The test of comparability in any sale is the least amount of adjustments," said Fleming. "The last thing you want is to have to make a big adjustment for size."

Noting that the company is in Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceedings, Fleming asked Brown what was the appraised value of the Allenport Plant for the court's purposes. Brown said the appraisal also included equipment, adding that he did not have those records at his disposal.

Jack France, solicitor of Allenport Borough, asked Fleming what was the typical method of sale of an industrial facility such as the Allenport Plant.

"The sale of most plants of this size is typically, untypical," said Fleming. "There are a variety of ways that the sale can take place including stock takeover and ESOP."

Tax revenues on the Allenport Plant make up 10.5 percent of the California Area School District's annual revenues and 63 percent of those revenues for Allenport Borough. In addition, occupation privledge tax revenue dropped from a peek of $15,000 to $2,500.

"When Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel filed for Chapter 11, it was exempt from paying real estate taxes to Allenport Borough," said Fleming. "I want to point out that Allenport Borough is playing catch up ball. A reduction to $1.50 per sqaure foot would be disasterous for the borough of Allenport."

Fleming said the three taxing bodies are requesting that the property be reassessed to include a slight increase to between $8.50 to $9 per square foot for the property.

According to Lou Lignelli, director of administration for the county and a member of the assessment board, a decision on both requests will be made "within a few weeks."

Monessen Canopies Going

down town to watch the demolition," said Councilman Ernest Wisyanski, noting that demolition during the holiday season could add to the amount of people downtown during store hours.

"I'm sure people will be curious about the demolition," added Councilman Anthony Mascetta, who suggested that Monessen Chamber of Commerce do something positive in the way of sales during demolition "as opposed tosomething negative."

"I think we should allow the engineer to use his expertise and see what he comes up with," said Sepesky. The mayor said that council may have to meet with the engineers to discuss the options of doing work during daylight hours, at night or after the holiday season.

Sepesky also moved that the city should include salvage rights on the decking and lights for the canopy. It was then suggested that the city could sell the decking and lights.

"The Chamber of Commerce wants the lights," said Councilman Joseph Cieply. He added that "we'll come up with a price."

Sepesky said now that council is making the move to take down the canopy there is a challenge to the property owners in the area to upgrade their facilities.

"I just hope that those who were so critical of the canopies in the past, especially property owners there, will jump to the forefront and clean up the fronts of their buildings and make them more attractive."

In an unrelated matter, Sepesky announced that the city will receive nearly $54,000 more in 1986 Community Development Block Grants (CDBG).

In a letter from the state Department of Community Affairs, the city was told that an additional $53,045 will be added to its CDGB fund for 1986, bringing the new total to $324,296. The letter stated that the money was possible as a result of funds that were being previously deformed by the Federal Administration.

While Sepesky said that no decision by council has been made as to the spending of the money, he noted that along with the canopy removal, other projects which were done with CDGB monies include residential rehabilitation, small street and sidewalk projects and some work in the City Park.

In other business council:

- Awarded bids for the demolition of four residential properties in the city, two on Sixth St., and one each on McMahon Ave. and Ninth St.
- Awarded the 1987 engineering contract to Westmoreland Engineers of Monessen. The engineers will do the work on all Department of Community Affairs contracts.
- Authorized Noll to advertise for bids for renovation work on the Monessen Civic Center.

Large Vets Day parade in making

By JOHN P. "MOON" CLARK

Donora Veterans met on Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the growth of the up-coming Veteran's annual parade. The parade will be held at 2:30 p.m. in Donora on Nov. 11, Veteran's Day. The annual Veteran's Day parade is held each year at a different Mon Valley community. Last year the parade was held in Monongahela. This year is Donora's time to prepare the large parade.

George Amoroso opened the meeting as president of the Donora Veterans Parade Action. Following President Amoroso's opening talk, the secretary of the group, Anthony Pappasergi, read the minutes of the preceding meeting.

Then, George Amoroso informed the group of Veterans that he was going to curb the selling of items during the parade.

Alec Lonich, the head of the Vet's ticket sales, was asked to report. The report informed the Veterans that the sale of the tickets will end on November 8.

Ed Hardon then reported on groups in the parade, mentioning the five high school bands and a few others who will be in the parade.

It was also mentioned that Gus Brickner of Charleroi will be waving his hand at people as he drives his car in the parade. Gus is the distance champion of the world. No one has ever reached the swimming record mark that he has. He is the only world champion that I have ever met.

Ted Mathues attended the meeting. He has returned from the hospital in Louisville, Kentucky, where he underwent surgery. He gets around now with the aid of a walker. Ted made several helpful remarks that were interesting to the committees in charge.

Marie Cerini, a lively woman who has a knack of everything connected with the Veteran's Parade is a part of all the action and a good leader. Next to her was seated Anna Jones, another woman devoutly interested in the Veteran's activities, especially the parade.

There were 19 people at the meeting. They are George Amoroso, Anthony Pappasergi, Benjamin Peeler, Steve Guia, Mr. Cerini, Alec Lonich, William Rose, David Hunter, Robert Virgili, Edward Hardin, Michael Palore, Ed Mountain, Ted Mathues, Barry Hickman, Anna Jones, John Lignelli, Snuffy Pasterick and Michael Lutz.

At the start of the meeting, Anthony Pappasergi carried out the opening prayer. George Amoroso led the Veterans in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

The meeting was short when compared to all the previous meetings. It means that the parade has grown to satisfying heights. It was announced that the next meeting at the American Legion meeting room will take place at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 28. This will be a Mon Valley meeting of Veterans from the communities in the Mon Valley.

The next meeting for only the Donora Veterans will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 3. That will be only a week before the parade on November 11. The committees in charge are ready to display their efforts in most of the activities. Such activities are many. A few of them that are ready for the parade can be listed as, obtaining the judges and the judges places on Sixth Street; placement of units in the parade; the dressing of the street in Donora with art, flags and window dressings; the final parade route and the parking places, to mention a few.

Also scheduled is the dinner for the Vets and the speakers. The work will be displayed in Donora this year as the parade marches down McKean Avenue, Donora. The two up-coming meetings in Donora will close the gigantic effort is displayed.

Monongahela man held on four charges

A Monongahela man who was arrested for charges, which included allegedly stealing a car, remained in jail today after a preliminary hearing yesterday in Peters Twp. before District Magistrate Michael Fagella.

Two of the six charges against Charles Fine, 23, of 1023 Fourth St., were dismissed by Fagella, but Fine was ordered held over on the other four.

Fine had been charged with theft by unlawful taking, resisting arrest, making terroristic threats, disorderly conduct, recklessly endangering another person and aggravated assault. The charges were brought by Monongahela police on Oct. 14 after Fine was stopped at CoGo's in North Charleroi with a car in his possession that had been reported stolen earlier.

The charges dismissed included recklessly endangering another person. In dismissing the theft charges, Fagella said "there was no proof to show (Fine) was attempting to deprive (car owner James) Yancec of the use of his car." In addition, the recklessly endangering charge which was brought by Monongahela Police Officer Glen McMahon, who said Fine was spitting on him and almost forced him to wreck the police cruiser they were traveling in, was dropped because Fagella ruled that Fine did not criminally intend to cause the car to crash while he was in it.

Fagella ordered Fine held over on the other charges after lengthy testimony.

Those testifying included Monongahela Police Officers McMahon and Chris Taylor, North Charleroi Police Officer Mark Spridik, Debra Magiske of Monongahela, who was with Fine when he was stopped with Yancec's car, and Yancec.

Testimony also included questions concerning Fine's medical condition after the arrest and the nearly 10 [illegible] raign him before Magistrate James Brady in Monongahela.

After the preliminary hearing, Fine was sent back to the Washington County Jail in lieu of $7,500 straight cash bond.

Grosso admits headed $millions numbers ring

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Reputed gambling czar Anthony "Tony" Grosso, battling the effects of ill health, has given up the fight to clear his name.

Grosso admitted Tuesday that he headed a multi-million-dollar numbers business in Allegheny County. He faces a sentencing hearing on federal charges before U.S. District Judge Donald Ziegler today.

Grosso's admission came in a guilty plea in Allegheny County Court to 17 criminal counts filed by Senior Deputy Attorney General Lawrence Claus. It was the second guilty plea in two days for the 72-year-old Grosso.

"You reach a certain age, you reach a certain health factor, you get tired of fighting," said John Doherty, Grosso's attorney.

Grosso, of suburban Mt. Lebanon, has undergone a quintuple coronary bypass and a bout with colon cancer.

"large factor" in his decision to plead guilty.

Grosso pleaded guilty Monday in U.S. District Court to 68 counts of operating an illegal numbers organization and tax evasion.

Claus said Grosso faces a maximum of 100 years in jail and $185,000 in fines as a result of Tuesday's guilty plea. He faces up to 340 years in [illegible] and fines [illegible] resulting from the federal counts

Officials said neither plea involved a plea bargain.

Federal prosecutors estimated that Grosso's daily numbers operation grossed more than $13 million a year.

Pittsburgh Police Sgt. William Giles, who conducted the state's investigation into Grosso's operation, said he believes the operation has been taken over by someone established in the South Hills. He declined to say who it was, but said the man has never been arrested for operating a lottery.

Cancer deaths could be halved by 2000, study says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death rate from cancer could be slashed 50 percent in less than 20 years without miracle cures or breakthroughs, says a new report from the National Cancer Institute.

The agency on Tuesday released a plan for seriously developing what already is known about preventing and treating cancer to halve the annual death rate of the disease by the year 2000.

The strategy, which involves the combined efforts of public and private groups, advocates turning cancer death reduction into a national goal with expanded programs in prevention, screening, early detection and treatment

"Knowledge gained over the years can be used to control a significant portion of the disease which was responsible for an estimated 462,000 deaths in 1985," said Dr. Vincent T. DeVita, director of the institute.

The campaign, outlined in a report, "Cancer Control Objectives for the Nation 1985-2000," involves expanded efforts against cigarette smoking and the high-fat, low-fiber diet that promotes different types of cancer. It also advocates earlier use of the latest diagnostic and treatment techniques

To reach the goal of reducing cancer mortality within the lifetimes of most Americans will require the cooperation of the public, industry, health professions, news media and government, DeVita said.

Among other things, the report calls for industry to increase health promotion in the workplace, for the news media to better spread information about cancer prevention and control, for voluntary organizations to offer more health education and screening programs at the local level and health professional groups to reemphasize cancer control in training programs

The national mortality rate from cancer in 1980, based on the latest available data, was 183 deaths per 100,000 population annually. This could be cut by as much as 50 percent before the year 2000 by using the prevention and treatment knowledge already available, NCI officials said.

Monessen Chamber to view parking plan

Monessen Chamber of Commerce members will visit Latrobe next week to discuss adequate parking facilities.

The trip to Latrobe was the subject of a meeting between the Chamber and the Revitalization Task Force. It will take place Wednesday, Nov. 5.

During the recent meeting, it was suggested that a trip to Latrobe would enlighten Monessen officials on how they can best utilize information on a well laid-out city with adequate parking. City officials; members of the Redevelopment Authority, Planning Commission, Parking Authority, and Chamber of Commerce, as well as business and property owners are invited to take part in the gathering at Latrobe.

The Chamber is requesting that reservations for the trip (either by bus or private vehicle) be made no later than 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 31, by calling the Chamber at 684-3200
